Managing Your Future E-Book Collection

*Morial Convention
Center Room 287*

The PVLRL IG creates formal and informal settings for the discussion on issues and trends of interest to publishers, vendors, librarians, and others concerned with the business aspects of library collections and technical services, and highlights best practices among our constituent groups.

ALA Membership is not required. All are welcomed to attend the planning meeting & program!

Panelists:

Beth Fuseler Avery, Coordinator of Collection Development, University of North Texas Libraries

Melanie Schaffner, Marketing & Sales Manager at the Johns Hopkins University Press & Project Muse

Michael Zeoli, Director, Global Consortia, YBP Library Services

As more libraries increase their e-book holdings by purchasing subject collections and installing patron demand systems, new methods of acquiring and organizing content must be considered. As libraries struggle to control costs and manage their growing e-book collections, issues such as duplication of content in both electronic and print forms and reliable metadata become increasingly important. Our panel will discuss the dichotomy of selecting and organizing e-book content in a fast and growing landscape of digitized titles, and how vendors and publishers are offering more content and levels of service while keeping up with standards in an ever-changing environment.

PLEASE CONSIDER ATTENDING THE PLANNING MEETING ON SATURDAY, JUNE 25 FROM 4-5:30 P.M. AT THE EMBASSY SUITES, ROOM JEAN LAFITTE 1. LOCATED AT 315 JULIA STREET, JUST A FEW STEPS AWAY FROM MCC.
