ACRL Board Ground Rules

Approved Fall Board Meeting, November 18, 2019.

1. Accept mutual responsibility for quality of meeting and assess effectiveness.
2. Be present, attentive, engaged and prepared. Avoid side conversations.
3. Lean into discomfort; discuss the undiscussable issues
4. Speak up if you have a question or to test assumptions.
5. Listen with care for the individual and differ respectfully.
6. Signal conclusion, identify next steps, and make clear assignments.
7. Assume positive intent/give benefit of doubt.
8. Enjoy yourself.

Make knowledge-based decisions using these four questions:

1. What do you know about our members/prospective members/customers—needs, wants, and preferences, that is relevant to this decision?*
2. What do we know about the current realities and evolving dynamics of our members’ marketplace/industry/profession that is relevant to this decision?*
3. What do we know about the capacity and strategic position of our organization that is relevant to this decision?*
4. What are the ethical implications of this decision?
   What do you wish that you knew, but don’t?
ACRL Board Social Media Guidelines
Approved Fall Board Meeting, November 16, 2018

This document addresses ACRL Board members’ use of their personal social media accounts in sharing information from Board work.

1. Purpose
Social media offers an opportunity for the ACRL Board to increase two-way communication with members. As such, we recognize the importance of social media not only for sharing information and updates, but in contributing towards greater transparency and member engagement.

2. Guidelines
Board members who engage with social media agree to do so in a professional manner and to act in accordance with the Board’s Ground Rules, which are reviewed and updated each year at the Strategic Planning and Orientation Retreat. The following guidelines are intended to assist Board members in determining what type of social media posts are appropriate. Board members may:
   a. use their personal social media accounts to share Board information;
   b. share information/discussions and distinguish/label personal opinions clearly as their own;
   c. include general summaries of Board discussions without including specific comments or attributing those comments to individual Board members
   d. Once vote is taken, support decision in line with Board responsibilities;
   e. report on action items;
   f. leverage social media to gather feedback from members.

3. Responsibilities
Board members who choose to share Board information on social media are responsible for following member responses and closing the feedback loop, as follows:
   a. Twitter posts should use the #acrlboard hashtag, along with any individual hashtag(s) for specific discussions.
   b. Board members initiating discussion on social media should summarize and report member responses back to the Board promptly.
   c. Board members initiating discussion on social media should report back to responding members with the results of the discussion.

This is the fourth-quarter report of a cumulative report for FY2020. Data format:
- New entries are in regular font.
- Previously reported entries are in italic.

Strategic Goal Areas

Value of Academic Libraries
Goal: Academic libraries demonstrate alignment with and impact on institutional outcomes.

Objective 1: Cultivate research opportunities that communicate the impact of academic and research libraries in the higher education environment.
- The VAL Committee is planning an ACRL Online Forum for spring 2021 to showcase the findings of six research grant recipients.
- In May, the VAL committee opted to offer all FY19 research grant recipients a blanket one-year extension, if needed, to complete their work due to the impact of COVID-19. Dissemination funds cannot be extended and must be used by Aug. 31, 2020.
- The Academic Library Impact special issue of College & Research Libraries was released in April.
- In mid-February, leaders of the VAL committee decided to suspend the ALI research grants for FY20 and 21, in light of ALA’s financial challenges and in anticipation of reduced staff support (current staff liaison, Kara Malenfant, will assume interim ED role in late April).
- The VAL committee reviewed interim reports by FY19 recipients, providing feedback on proposed changes to project design.
- The VAL committee reviewed and approved requests from FY19 recipients for additional dissemination funding.
- The VAL committee is assessing the research grant program. Recipients of 2019 grants submitted interim reports.
- Editors are making good progress on the special issue of College & Research Libraries, for April 2020 publication, around new research on the impact of academic libraries on student learning and success in higher education. In particular, research articles were sought that advance the six priority areas...

- The VAL committee has decided to discontinue supporting the visualization component created by OCLC to accompany the 2017 report Academic Library Impact: Improving Practice and Essential Areas to Research. Usage is low and it requires substantial effort to keep up to date with relevant literature. There will be a notice placed on the dashboard landing page about the sunset date of May 1, 2020.

Objective 2: Promote the impact and value of academic and research libraries to the higher education community.

- The VAL Committee will present an “Update on Value of Academic Libraries Initiatives” for the MW21 Virtual Conference.
- In mid-February, leaders of the VAL committee decided to suspend the VAL travel scholarship program for FY20 and 21, in light of ALA’s financial challenges and in anticipation of reduced staff support (current staff liaison, Kara Malenfant, will assume interim ED role in late April).
- The VAL committee is assessing the travel scholarship program.
- On Nov 12, ACRL announced 4 recipients of its fourth round of Value of Academic Libraries Travel Scholarships, up to $2,000 each, which support librarians presenting on their work demonstrating the impact of academic libraries in the broader landscape of higher education. These travel scholarships take up a recommendation from the 2017 ACRL report Academic Library Impact: Improving Practice and Essential Areas to Research that academic librarians effectively communicate their contributions to institutional stakeholders and the higher education community. New in 2019-2020, proposals can be related to any of ACRL’s four strategic goal areas or the Core Commitment to Equity, Diversity, and Inclusion, as articulated in the ACRL Plan for Excellence. The recipients are:
  - Elizabeth Cheney (California State University-Northridge) for a presentation titled “Affordable Learning Solutions for Student Success at CSUN” at 2020 Alliance of Hispanic Serving Institution Educators.
  - Erin Durham (University of Maryland Baltimore County) for a presentation titled “Mission Not-Impossible – Open Educational Resources and Accessibility – Two Roadmaps for Strategic Collaboration to Support the Institutional Mission/Vision” at Online Learning Consortium: Accelerate.
  - Samantha Kennedy (Rowan University) for a workshop titled “Open Educational Resources Boot Camp: How to Leverage Interdisciplinary Connections to Create More Affordable, Inclusive Classroom Resources” at Conference on College Composition and Communication Annual Convention.
  - Pamela Mann (St. Mary’s College of Maryland) for a workshop titled “Community Based Spanish and Critical Information Literacy” at AACU: Global Citizenship for Campus, Community and Careers: Crossing Borders and Boundaries.
Objective 3: Expand professional development opportunities for assessment and advocacy of the contributions towards impact of academic libraries.

- Project Outcome for Academic Libraries has 3,281 users as of October 28, 2020. To date, 542 academic libraries have created surveys and collected 55,781 responses.
  - A new case study was added from DeSales University.
  - A new resource, Setting Goals for Outcome Measurement, was published.
  - A qualitative dashboard has been added to the data visualization tools.
  - The editorial board is updating user resources and planning a series of webinars for the spring.
- Project Outcome for Academic Libraries has 3015 users as of June 4. 500 academic libraries have created surveys and collected 43,306 responses.
  - The First Annual Report was released in June, summarizing the development and engagement with the toolkit so far.
  - A new case study was added from Southern Utah University.
  - The rate of new user sign-ups and response collection has decreased significantly in March with the impact of COVID-19. The editorial board has developed guidelines for new case studies and solicited submissions from users. The editorial board drafted new talking points to respond to user questions and is currently working to develop new case studies. (On outreach efforts, see the Education section below.)
- A VAL subcommittee has been meeting to begin work on a LibGuide toolkit on data analytics and privacy.

Objective 4: Support libraries in articulating their role in advancing issues of equity, access, diversity, and inclusion in higher education.

- The VAL committee has agreed to analyze the results of the 2020 ACRL EDI survey (currently in the field through February 28, 2021).
- A VAL subcommittee continues work towards an Equity & Social Justice Spotlight series on ACRL Insider and have reached out to some colleagues to be profiled (including non-library folks).

Student Learning

Goal: Advance equitable and inclusive pedagogical practices and environments for libraries to support student learning.

Objective 1: Empower libraries to build sustainable, equitable, inclusive, and responsive information literacy programs.

- C&RL published “Developing a Framework to Improve Information and Digital Literacy in a Bachelor of Paramedic Science Entry-to-Practice Program” by Nigel Christopher Barr, Bill Lord, Belinda Flanagan, Roger Carter (September 2020); and “News Credibility: Adapting and Testing a Source Evaluation Assessment in Journalism” by Piotr S. Bobkowski, Karna Younger (July 2020).
- C&RL News published “Educational development partnerships and practices: Helping librarians move beyond the one-shot” by Sara Sharun, Erika E. Smith (Oct. 2020); “Loaded questions: The Framework for Information Literacy through a DEI lens” by Karin Heffernan (Sept. 2020); “Teaching information literacy: Developing an online course for faculty” by Jane Hammons (July/Aug. 2020).

In October SLILC issued a call for chapters for their new publication, Exploring Inclusive & Equitable Pedagogies: Creating Space for All Learners.

The ACRL Framework Sandbox, an openly accessible platform and repository for librarians and their educational partners to discover, share, collect and use ongoing work related to the ACRL Framework in practice and professional development, was visited more than 89,871 times in FY20. The Sandbox now provides access to 229 resources, including more than 28 resources that were added or revised this year. The online version of the Framework itself was accessed more than 89,000 times in FY20.

PRIMO (Peer-Reviewed Instruction Materials Online) maintained by the ACRL Instruction Section provides access to 340 resources. Between September 2019 and August 2020, seven new approved projects were added to the database.

ACRL/CHOICE Webinars presented “The Socially-Distanced Library: Transitioning Faculty to Online Teaching Environments” (August 2020).

ACRL offered a free presentation, “Project Outcome for Academic Libraries: An Introductory Workshop” (August 2020); “Developing Signature Pedagogies in Information Literacy (e-seminar) (August 2020), and “Hidden Architectures in Information Literacy - A Three-Part Webcast Series” (July 2020).

ACRL Health Sciences Interest Group presented an ACRL online forum, "Building Foundational Information Literacy Skills through a Course-integrated LibWizard Tutorial." (July 2020)

ACRL Where Together, a free online virtual event (June 2020), featured "Students Do Not Attend Alone: A Community Approach to College Information Literacy;" "Flip the Deficit Script: First-year student interviews about everyday life research can change your instruction;" "Teaching Computer Science Students About Algorithm Bias."

DoLS sponsored a free online discussion forum: “Online Learning & Non-Traditional Student Populations” (June 2020).

The ACRL Board of Directors approved a new Framework for Access Services Librarianship (PDF) at its spring virtual meeting. Consisting of four sections, the framework defines access services, suggests competencies for access services librarians and managers, examines marketing and outreach of access services, and suggests opportunities for professional engagement for access services librarians.

The ACRL Framework Sandbox, an openly accessible platform and repository for librarians and their educational partners to discover, share, collect and use ongoing work related to the ACRL Framework in practice and professional development, has been visited more than 70,876 times this year. The Sandbox now provides access to 222 resources, including 24 resources that were added this year. The online version of the Framework itself has been accessed more than 70,952 times this year and 230 copies of the print edition have been requested.

● C&RL published “Information Literacy and Cultural Context: Chinese English Language Learners’ Understandings of Information Authority” by Emily Crist and Diana Popa (May 2020).

● “Engaging with the ACRL Framework: A Catalyst for Exploring and Expanding Our Teaching Practices,” is being offered as an e-learning course, June 1- July 3, 2020.

● “Learning Through Play: Games and Gamification in Information Literacy Instruction,” was offered as an ACRL e-Learning webcast, May 14, 2020.

● The ACRL Information Literacy and Standards Committee sponsored a free online discussion forum, "Connecting Justice to Frameworks: Information Literacy in Social Work,” on May 21, 2020.

● ACRL published Learning Beyond the Classroom: Engaging Students in Information Literacy through Co-Curricular Activities, and Critical Thinking About Sources Cookbook.

● C&RL News published “Critical appraisal: The key to unlocking information literacy in the STEM disciplines” by Kathryn Mercer, Kari D. Weaver, Rachel Figueiredo, Caitlin Carter (March 2020); “Instructional design: Resources for online learning” by Laura A. Sheets (March 2020); “Taking root: Librarians help new Forestry students create a learning community,” by Erica Lopez, Tina Oswald (March 2020); “Knowing when to cry uncle: Balancing instructional initiatives,” by Angie Cox, Jim Kelly, Chris Neuhaus (Feb. 2020); “Exploring worldviews and authorities: Library instruction in Indigenous Studies using Authority is Constructed and Contextual” by Michael Dudley (Feb. 2020).

● C&RL published “Information Literacy’s Influence on Undergraduates’ Learning and Development: Results from a Large Multi-institutional Study” by Kevin Fosnacht (March 2020) and “Community College Librarians and the ACRL Framework: Findings from a National Study” by Susan Wengler, Christine Wolff-Eisenberg (January 2020).

● Free e-learning offerings included Pandemic Pedagogy: Resources for Library Instruction at a Distance (March 18) and Instruction and Outreach for Diverse Populations: Native/Indigenous Librarians and Students, Parts 1” (February 28, 2020).

● The ACRL Framework Sandbox received 56,643 total page views from September 1, 2019 – March 25, 2020. The Sandbox now provides access to 210 resources. Twelve resources were added since September 1, 2019 and 53 new contributor accounts were added during the same time period. The top 3 most popular resources to date (based on download counts) are: (1) Research Question Generator (downloaded 5,455 times); (2) The Blueprint for Hip Hop Information Literacy (downloaded 4,064 times); (3) Ethical Use of Information in Presentations (downloaded 2,685 times).

McCullough); and “Rethinking CRAAP: Getting students thinking like fact-checkers in evaluating web sources” (Jennifer A. Fielding).

- The ACRL Framework Sandbox received 33,879 total page views from September 1, 2019 – January 1, 2020. The Sandbox now provides access to 207 resources. Nine resources were added since September 1, 2019 and 31 new contributor accounts were added during the same time period. The top 3 most popular resources to date (based on download counts) include: (1) Research Question Generator (downloaded 4,728 times); (2) The Blueprint for Hip Hop Information Literacy (downloaded 3,887 times); (3) Ethical Use of Information in Presentations (downloaded 2,634 times).
- C&RL published one in this area including: “Affective Aspects of Instruction Librarians’ Decisions to Adopt New Teaching Practices: Laying the Groundwork for Incremental Change.”
- ACRL published The Sustainable Library’s Cookbook; Supporting Today’s Students in the Library: Strategies for Retaining and Graduating International, Transfer, First-Generation, and Re-Entry Students; and Building Teaching and Learning Communities: Creating Shared Meaning and Purpose.

Objective 2: Collaborate with internal and external partners to expand understanding of the impact of information literacy on student learning.

- National Survey of Student Engagement (NSSE) Information Literacy Module Review Task Force was approved in April and charged to work with the National Survey of Student Engagement staff to review and revise the current information literacy module and provide comment on the analysis of the data by August 2021 and to review the new pilot module and suggest revisions (if needed) by October. The task force will also provide feedback on the NSSE data analysis during the spring/summer of 2021.

Research and Scholarly Environment

Goal: The academic and research library workforce accelerates the transition to more open and equitable systems of scholarship.

Objective 1: Increase the ways ACRL is an advocate and model for more representative and inclusive ways of knowing.

- ACRL and SPARC offered a virtual edition of their popular forum on scholarly communications, “Navigating the Current Budget Crisis While Creating a More Sustainable, Values-Aligned Future for Research” on August 24, 2020, featuring panelists including ACRL President Jon Cawthorne.
- The Academic Library Impact special issue of College & Research Libraries, released in April, used an open developmental peer-review process aimed at revising and improving the work in progress. While C&RL had tried this approach on a much smaller scale before, this is the first time it had been done for a whole journal issue.

Objective 2: Enhance members’ capacity to address issues related to scholarly communication, including but not limited to data management, library publishing, open access, and digital scholarship, and power and privilege in knowledge creation systems.

- ReSEC and ACRL staff finalized the migration of the scholcomm listserv from Sympa to ALA Connect on August 1, 2020, and the Sympa list was deactivated in September.
- In advance of Open Access Week 2020, October 19-26, ReSEC and ACRL staff updated the ACRL Scholarly Communications Toolkit.
• Elena Azadbakht and Teresa Schultz will be presenting the results of their research funded by the ACRL Scholarly Communications Grants at the Open Education Conference in November 2020. Their registration for the virtual conference was underwritten by ACRL via grant dissemination funds.

• ACRL staff are working with ReSEC and the presenter teams for the Scholarly Communication and Research Data Management RoadShows on virtual options for calendar year 2021.

• Interim reports from the first Scholarly Communications Research Grant recipients were submitted on June 1.

• ReSEC’s joint program with ACRL’s Publications Coordinating Committee, “Open Peer Review: Considerations for Authors and Publishers,” accepted for ALA Annual 2020, will be presented as part of ACRL’s Together Wherever virtual event on June 9, 2020, at 11am CT.

• ACRL and SPARC once again offered their popular forum on scholarly communications as part of the ALA MW in Philadelphia on Saturday, January 25. The forum focused on negotiating journal packages and the work and strategic planning that needs to happen before a big deal or journal package negotiation in order to negotiate more aggressively or consider walking away altogether.

• Members of ReSEC updated the scholarly communication toolkit in advance of Fair Use Week.

• In reporting to the ACRL Board at ALA MW, ReSEC recommended changing the subsidized road show program to include any of the workshop topics with hosts limited to minority-serving institutions.

• ACRL continues to subsidize the scholarly communication RoadShow to up to 5 hosts selected on a competitive basis. The selected hosts for 2020 are:
  o California State University, Sacramento
  o Central Washington University
  o St Cloud State University
  o University of Iowa
  o University of Memphis

The ReSEC committee has had conversations about changing the eligibility criteria to give preference to minority-serving institutions.

• ACRL and SPARC will once again offer their popular scholarly communication forum at the ALA Midwinter Meeting in Philadelphia.

• On Dec 6, ACRL announced the 7 recipients of its first Scholarly Communications Research Grants, up to $5,000 each, that contribute to more inclusive systems of scholarly communications in areas suggested by the 2019 report Open and Equitable Scholarly Communications: Creating a More Inclusive Future. The grant recipients are:
  o Tatiana Bryant (Adelphi University) and Camille Thomas (Florida State University) for a project titled “Attitudes Towards Open Access Publishing Amongst Faculty of Color”
  o Jennifer Chan (University of California, Los Angeles) and Juleah Swanson (University of Colorado Boulder) for a project titled “SCORE Analysis: Leveraging Institutional Data to Bring Balance Back into the Scholarly Landscape”
  o Amanda Makula and Laura Turner (University of San Diego) for a project titled “Collaborative Collection Development: Inviting Community-Owned Public Scholarship into the Academic Library”
Objective 3: Increase ACRL’s efforts to influence and advocate for more open and equitable dissemination policies and practices.

- ReSEC presented ACRL’s Open Access Week live webcast, “Celebrating Open Access Week: Building Structural Equity and Inclusion in Scholarly Communications,” on October 21, 2020, featuring a panel of recipients of the 2019 Scholarly Communications Grants and moderated by Charlotte Roh, chair of ReSEC.
- On June 5, ACRL joined six other organizations in submitting a letter to thank the White House Office of Science and Technology Policy (OSTP) for its leadership and to urge OSTP to, "enact a strong national open access policy, and we stand ready to collaborate with you and all other stakeholders to ensure that U.S. federally funded research achieves the maximum public good it is intended to promote."
- ReSEC led the drafting of an ACRL/ALA response, submitted April 22, to a Request for Information issued by the White House Office of Science and Technology Policy on Public Access to Peer-Reviewed Scholarly Publications, Data and Code Resulting From Federally Funded Research.
- On January 8, ACRL joined eight other library, research, and advocacy organizations to express commitment to ensuring that American taxpayers are guaranteed immediate, free, and unfettered access to the results of taxpayer funded scientific research and to encourage the Administration to support continued progress towards this shared goal.

New Roles and Changing Landscapes

Goal: The academic and research library workforce effectively fosters change in academic libraries and higher education environments.

Objective 1: Deepen ACRL’s advocacy and support for the full range of the academic library workforce.

- After discussion at the April 8 Board meeting, NRCL has decided to focus on user experience/anthropology librarian for their next constellation topic. As recommended by the Board, they will concentrate on both new aspects of the role and ways in which the role is evolving due to changing circumstances.
● NRCL is in the process of identifying their next constellation topic around which they’ll create information, products, and services. Potential topics have been narrowed to four choices—open science/knowledge, assessment librarian, user experience/anthropologist librarian, and digital humanities librarian—which they’ll present to the Board at its April meeting for input.

● One of the six subgroups working on NRCL’s diversity pipeline project, the First Job team, is developing a model onboarding system for new employees based on organizational socialization.

Objective 2: Equip the academic library workforce to effectively lead, manage, and embrace change, advocate for their communities, and serve as a catalyst for transformational change in higher education.

● “Fostering Change: A Team-Based Guide,” the open access publication that resulted from NRCL’s change course project, published on October 22, 2020; within a few days of release, the publication had been accessed 898 times. The curriculum designers/authors and overseeing members of NRCL presented a free webcast, “ACRL Presents: Using ACRL’s Fostering Change Guide in Your Library,” on October 29. NRCL’s change subcommittee is meeting with the curriculum designers in December to discuss plans for the next phase of the project, the virtual change cohort, to launch in 2021.

● The final materials and curriculum for the OER RoadShow were submitted to ACRL staff and the NRCL OER subgroup for review and approval on September 28, 2020. Final changes are due to the curriculum designers in early November. A virtual version of the RoadShow is expected to launch in 2021.

● The final curriculum and materials for the OER RoadShow are expected in June. With no in-person RoadShows scheduled through 2020, once the final curriculum has been approved by the NRCL OER subgroup, the presenters will pivot to designing an online option.

● Final text for NRCL’s free online change course--tentatively titled Fostering Change: An ACRL Guidebook for Teams--is due in June. We now expect launch of the course, with a debut of the text on ACRL’s website and an introductory webinar, in late summer. We’re planning phase two of the project, the paid virtual cohort tentatively called the ACRL Fostering Change Incubator, for Spring 2021.

● With the cancellation of ALA Annual 2020, staff and RoadShow presenters are working on a new date/location to pilot the Open Educational Resources (OER) RoadShow, as well as possible digital offerings on OER from the presenters while the RoadShows are not travelling.

● After an open and competitive call for curriculum designers/presenters, application review, and interviews, four designers/presenters were chosen by NRCL to design and deliver the new Open Educational Resources (OER) RoadShow:
  o Heather Blicher, E-Learning Librarian and Assistant Professor, Southern New Hampshire University
  o Kathy Essmiller, OER Librarian and Library Liaison to Music and Theatre Departments, Oklahoma State University
  o Michelle Reed, Director of Open Educational Resources, University of Texas at Arlington (interim OER RoadShow presenter/coordinator)
  o Ariana E. Santiago, Open Educational Resources Coordinator, University of Houston

With the guidance of NRCL’s OER subgroup, work has begun on the curriculum design and the RoadShow is expected to launch in summer 2020. The RoadShow will be piloted in Chicago at ALA Annual 2020.

● The curriculum designers are finalizing work on the asynchronous online learning course on change management scheduled to debut in spring 2020. NRCL has also committed to a second phase of the project, a digital cohort facilitated by the curriculum designers in which learners can engage with other teams navigating change experiences and working their way through the online course. NRCL is forming a new subgroup to oversee this work, and they’ll work with the designers on requirements for the cohort and other functions and processes, to potentially include:

- Biweekly drop-in all-cohort meetings via videoconferencing
- Mentor meetings once per month for coaching and project feedback (three total)
- Slack channel for general conversation during and beyond the program
- Successful upload of a project deliverable
- Certifying teams who complete the course/cohort

Phase two is expected to launch in the fall. While the course will remain a free, open resource, the cohort will be paid professional development.

● After an open and competitive call for curriculum designers, NRCL’s change course subgroup interviewed and chose the team of Dani Brecher Cook, Cinthya Ippoliti, and Brianna Marshall to plan and develop an asynchronous online learning course on change management that includes self-guided, self-paced readings and activities, as well as activities and exercises to be completed as a team. The curriculum designers submitted the draft curriculum for review in December 2019, and the change course subgroup is reviewing through January. The change course is scheduled to debut in spring 2020 and will be freely available from the ACRL website.

Objective 3: Increase diversity, cultivate equity, and nurture inclusion in the academic library workforce.

● NRCL has distilled the diversity pipeline project into three areas from the original six, and has divided the committee across these topics: pre-MLIS, first job, and working with library schools. They are discussing/determining deliverables for each of these areas over the coming months.

● NRCL is exploring ways that ACRL could support initiatives in equity, diversity, and inclusion through the lens of the evolving roles and the changing world in academic libraries using a diversity pipeline. Six points of entry into the profession and/or pain points have been identified—Pre-MLIS, MLIS, Non-MLIS, First Job, Retention, and Advancement—and the committee has divided into six teams to explore each area and determine concrete implementation ideas.

Core Commitment to Equity, Diversity and Inclusion (EDI)

● Building on Past President Karen Munro’s 2020 ACRL President’s Program "Shifting the Center: Transforming Academic Libraries Though Generous Accountability,” ACRL President Jon Cawthorne invited McKensie Mack, Founder and Managing Director of the McKensie Mack Group (MMG) and the Creator of #BoundaryWork, to lead a three-part Leadership Council series. ACRL leaders attended the three-part series, and participated in reflective pre-work to work towards the following goals. The ACRL Board will review feedback and ideas from the brainstorming sessions at its November 16 Fall Board Virtual Meeting.

   ● Goal 1: Help ACRL leaders develop a shared framework and language for discussions around anti-racism, accountability, and repair.

   ● Goal 2: Provide frameworks for institutional organizing that lays the groundwork for anti-racist policies, cultures, and analysis in varying scenarios of power and privilege.
Goal 3: Develop individualized action plans for integrating frameworks for anti-racism and institutional organizing within participants’ respective institutions.

The joint ACRL/ARL/ODLOS/PLA Building Cultural Proficiencies for Racial Equity Framework Task Force (press release) has held regular virtual meetings, and three working groups (glossary, survey, data competencies) are completing preliminary work. In the summer, ACRL staff submitted feedback to the survey working group, and ACRL will share the survey widely in conjunction with PLA and ARL. In late 2020 and early 2021, the full task force will begin work sessions using logic models; these sessions will be facilitated by Educopia Executive Director Katherine Skinner. Public comment is expected in February 2020, and the document is planned to be finalized in June 2021. As this task force was formed before the pandemic, the FY21 budget includes $30,000 to support two in-person meetings. The Board may need to determine how to strategically invest this money in FY21/FY22, as the in-person meetings have been canceled due to COVID-19.

A joint Board/B&F Working Group, led by ACRL Budget & Finance Chair Carolyn Henderson Allen, has been charged to, “Further explore and study existing equity, diversity and inclusion (EDI) work across ACRL through a financial lens, and consider how to prioritize and fund social justice or antiracist work that will be beneficial to workforce development, training and professional development.” The working group met virtually in October 2020, and is planning to complete an environmental scan with a financial lens.

The ACRL Diversity Alliance Task Force held its first meeting in October 2020, and will work to carry out the recommendations from the previous task force.

On October 13, 2020, ACRL joined 28 organizations in signing onto the Statement Urging Retraction of Executive Order Prohibiting the Inclusion of “Divisive Concepts” in Employee Training Sessions from the American Historical Association urging the retraction of the recent executive order prohibiting the inclusion of “divisive concepts” in employee training sessions carried out within the federal government and by federal contractors and grantees. The statement argues that "Rather than banning the 'divisive concepts' from any educational venue—whether a classroom, a museum, a national park, or a workplace training session—historians seek to draw public attention to these concepts so that they can be discussed, debated, and ultimately challenged. Unity is not achieved by pushing division under the rug; it can be won even in the face of difference."

On October 7, 2020, the Board approved ACRL Statement on Equity, Diversity, Inclusion, and the Print Collecting Imperative. The statement recommends that North American research libraries continue to collect and preserve valuable print materials, even as the global COVID-19 crisis and associated financial circumstances may compel them to shift, at least temporarily, to digital formats where available.

At AC20, the Board approved site selection policies for ACRL conferences, preconferences, and institutes to better align with ACRL’s Core Commitment to Equity, Diversity, and Inclusion.

ACRL/CHOICE Webinars presented "Confronting Hard History: Using Primary Sources to Teach Slavery, Civil Rights and Black Lives Matter." (Sept. 2020)

A working group of the Board is planning for a midsummer virtual Leadership Council with discussion and action-planning to move the association and profession toward equity, diversity, and inclusion.

The ACRL Board issued a statement on June 2, 2020, to support ALA, BCALA, and APALA Statements Condemning Violence and Racism. Included in the ACRL Board statement were actionable items and a "call on ACRL members to reflect and take action against systemic injustices and inequitable policing practices."
● On June 1, 2020, the ACRL Board of Directors endorsed the statement of the Black Caucus of The American Library Association (BCALA), which condemns the death of George Floyd at the hands of police officers within the Minneapolis Police Department. The "Statement Condemning Increased Violence and Racism Towards Black Americans and People of Color" includes that "Since George Floyd is the latest in a long line of recent and historical violence against Black people in the United States, the BCALA takes this moment to encourage BCALA members to take proactive and preventative measures in the fight against racism."

● On May 27, 2020, the ACRL Board of Directors signed the Asian/Pacific American Librarians Association's (APALA) statement, which "condemns (the) rise in xenophobia and racism due to the novel coronavirus outbreak." ACRL stands with APALA, and "rejects coronavirus-related hostility, anti-Asian stereotypes, and racism against Asians, Asian/Pacific Americans, or anyone perceived to be Asian."

● The 2020 ACRL President's Program, "Shifting the Center: Transforming Academic Libraries through Generous Accountability," will be hosted by ACRL President Karen Munro and featuring keynote speaker McKensie Mack, anti-oppression consultant, researcher, facilitator, founder of #BoundaryWork, and former executive director at Art+Feminism, the session will explore how doing this work—holding ourselves, each other, and our institutions meaningfully accountable for inequity—can be an opportunity for generosity, humor, and care. The program was held on Wednesday, June 10, and offered free of charge as part of ACRL Together Wherever Virtual Event.

● The ACRL Board has charged a new Diversity Alliance Task Force to carry out the recommendations from the current oversight task force, whose terms expire in June 2020. ACRL President Karen Munro and ACRL President-Elect Jon Cawthorne will complete appointments after the June 15 volunteer deadline.

● The joint ARL/ACRL/ODLOS/PLA Building Cultural Proficiencies for Racial Equity Framework Task Force is meeting monthly, and small working groups have been formed to complete an environmental scan, conduct a survey, and develop a glossary. A request for comments is planned for Spring 2021 and the final publication is expected in Summer 2021.

● In May, the ACRL Equity, Diversity and Inclusion website and ACRL Diversity Alliance website were revamped with improved layout, formatting, and graphics. Subpages were created to highlight the EDI LibGuide, Diversity Alliance, Learning Opportunities and Publications, and ACRL/ALA EDI Communities.

● The ACRL Equity, Diversity, and Inclusion Committee reviewed and provided feedback on a draft of the 2020 ACRL Trends survey on EDI that will be part of the next ACRL Academic Library Trends and Statistics survey.

● The ACRL Academic Library Trends and Statistics Survey Editorial Board has completed a draft of the 2020 trends questionnaire on equity, diversity and inclusion and plans to solicit feedback from the ACRL Value of Academic Libraries Committee EDI working group for feedback.

● The joint ARL/ACRL/ODLOS/PLA Building Cultural Proficiencies for Racial Equity Framework Task Force’s work was underway, with regular virtual meetings, and had an in-person meeting planned in Chicago in April 2020. Due to the impact of COVID-19, the task force will be meeting virtually less frequently, and the face-to-face meeting has been postponed. Depending on future developments for COVID-19, the task force may meet face-to-face in July 2020 or later in the fall.

● ACRL Staff are working with ALA ODLOS staff to arrange EDI orientation/training for presenters and speaker agreements will be updated to include a requirement that ACRL speakers watch/engage in these trainings, which will be recorded.
The STS EDI Task Force finished their MW2020 report, available at https://drive.google.com/drive/folders/1KNH_G_BiFVQ00Wmz-GswenYACYx7. ACRL has modified the 2020 online volunteer form to clarify the gender and racial identity questions. The ACRL Membership Committee sponsored a webcast, “Get Involved: Everything You Need to Know About Volunteering for an ACRL Committee” (Dec. 10, 2019) which included an appeal from ACRL President Karen Munro to complete the EDI section of the online volunteer form.

The ACRL Information Literacy Framework and Standards Committee has revised the tip sheet and checklist for groups developing companion documents to include a recommendation to incorporate EDI as a key component in the development of information literacy documents in the disciplines.

The ACRL Diversity Alliance continues for its fourth year, and ACRL promoted the program in December 2019 for 2020 renewals and new memberships. The Diversity Alliance Task Force, which oversees the DA program, has terms that end in June 2020. It is expected that the Board will review a request for next steps from the task force and the EDI Committee in Spring 2020.

The Instruction Section’s (IS) Diversity & Inclusion Task Force has produced a survey to identify needed diversity & inclusion resources related to information literacy and instruction, and gather recommendations for the future of the Instruction Section regarding supporting diversity and inclusion within instruction programs, as well as making the Instruction Section more inclusive and diverse.

A joint task force of ACRL, the Public Library Association (PLA), the ALA Office for Diversity, Literacy and Outreach Services (ODLOS), and the Association of Research Libraries (ARL) members was appointed in December to develop a “Framework for Cultural Proficiencies in Racial Equity.” The goal is for the framework to serve as a foundational resource to help public and academic libraries build inclusive cultures, within libraries and their broader communities, through guidelines on the development and implementation of organizational policies and professional practices that support diverse libraries with a diverse workforce. The ambitious project has a deadline of June 2020 (as it was anticipated that appointments could be completed in October), so it would not be surprising if more time is needed.

ACRL 2021 Call for Proposals includes a new statement on Equity, Diversity and Inclusion that reads as follows, “ACRL strives to develop an inclusive conference program that will reflect the library community’s diverse range of race, ethnicity, gender identity and expression, sexual orientation, economic background, age, and/or ability. We also seek presenters and topics from all types of libraries, positions, and experiences, including nonlibrary faculty, staff, and administrators. Individuals are encouraged to address how their proposed sessions and their personal and professional experiences will advance these goals and will promote equity and inclusion.”

ACRL 2021 Scholarship applications and RBMS Conference Scholarship application criteria have been widened to include non-members as eligible to apply for scholarship.

Enabling programs and services activities
The regularly recurring operations relevant to the ability of ACRL to lead academic and research librarians and libraries in advancing learning and scholarship are reported below.
Advocacy

Strengthening partnerships with other organizations

- ACRL is partnering with the National Survey of Student Engagement (NSSE) to develop a replacement for the current information literacy module and develop plans to promote the use of NSSE data with the academic library community.
- In late October, ACRL interim executive director Kara Malenfant continued conversations with staff leaders from the American Association of State Colleges and Universities and the Society for College and University Planning about a series of three co-branded webinars to address our joint audiences together.
- In late October, ACRL joined 28 organizations in signing onto a statement from the American Historical Association urging the retraction of the recent executive order prohibiting the inclusion of “divisive concepts” in employee training sessions carried out within the federal government and by federal contractors and grantees.
- On September 30, 2020, ACRL joined the ARL, the American Council of Learned Societies, the American Historical Association, the University of California Libraries, the University of Illinois Urbana-Champaign Library, and the University of Iowa Libraries in filing an amicus brief in the Michigan Supreme Court case Ahmad v. University of Michigan, a case involving the use of a public records request to circumvent a deed of gift.
- Interim Executive Director Malenfant attended Fall virtual meetings of the Association of Research Libraries in September and the American Council of Learned Societies in October.
- On July 17, 2020, ACRL joined a number of scholarly societies as a signatory on a statement from the Association of Asian Studies expressing deep concern on the 2020 Hong Kong National Security Law.
- ACRL, together with ALA and ARL, as part of the Library Copyright Alliance, took these actions:
  - In late October, endorsed reply comments filed with the Copyright Office on sovereign immunity by higher education leadership (in Association of American Universities and the Association of Public and Land-grant Universities) and the academic and research library community (as expressed by joint comments of the Association of Southeastern Research Libraries and the Greater Western Library Alliance).
  - On September 21, 2020, issued a statement congratulating Shira Perlmutter on her appointment as register of copyrights and director of the US Copyright Office by Librarian of Congress Carla Hayden.
  - On September 7, 2020, filed a petition for a new section 1201 exemption for the purpose of preservation of DVDs.
  - On September 2, 2020, submitted comments to the US Copyright Office in response to their notice of inquiry on sovereign immunity.
- Through its membership in the Open Access Working Group, ACRL joined six other organizations on June 5 in submitting a letter to thank the White House Office of Science and Technology Policy for its leadership in convening a substantive and thoughtful discussion process on broadening public access to the results of federally funded research.
- On June 5, ACRL joined ARL and the Oberlin Group of Libraries in issuing a statement to urge library vendors to continue free access, hold subscription prices steady during COVID-19 pandemic.
On June 1, ACRL joined a number of other higher education organizations, largely scholarly societies, in sending a letter to U.S. House and Senate leadership to encourage the provision of substantial additional funding for higher education in future bills, with focus on those students and institutions hardest hit by the consequences of the pandemic.

ACRL, together with ALA and ARL, as part of the Library Copyright Alliance, took these actions:

- Supported testimony given June 2 by David Hansen (Associate University Librarian for Research, Collections & Scholarly Communications, Lead Copyright & Information Policy Officer, Duke University Libraries) before the United States Senate Committee on the Judiciary, Subcommittee on Intellectual Property on the topic "Is the DMCA’s Notice-and-Takedown System Working in the 21st Century?"
- Signed onto a coalition letter in early April (organized by IFLA) to the World Intellectual Property Organization encouraging WIPO to take a clear stand in favor of ensuring that intellectual property regimes are a support, and not a hindrance, to efforts to tackle both the Coronavirus outbreak and its consequences.
- Signed onto a coalition letter in late March (organized by IFLA) to the World Intellectual Property Organization on the need for international action on copyright in order to allow libraries globally to preserve their collections in the face of climate change.
- On March 20, gave input on the next Register of Copyrights, in response to request for public input.
- On March 17, posted an update on the Georgia State E-Reserves Litigation. U.S. District Court Judge Evans determined that 37 of the alleged 48 infringements were fair uses.
- On February 28, sent a post-hearing brief to the Office of the United States Trade Representative commenting on Docket No. USTR-2019-0020 on South Africa Country Practice Review.
- On January 13, filed an amicus brief in support of Google. LCA members urged the Supreme Court to ensure that any fair use determination it reaches in this case does not affect the many fair uses made by libraries and educational institutions.
- On January 11, responded to a request for comments regarding intellectual property protection for artificial intelligence ("AI") innovation.

Due to pending retirement Executive Director Davis cut back on spring travel, however, the conferences she typically attends, were canceled due to COVID-19.

On February 18, ACRL, ALA, and the Freedom to Read Foundation joined 24 other non-profit groups in a coalition letter by the American Council on Education to U.S. Secretary of Education Betsy DeVos which responded to the Department’s January 17, 2020, notice of proposed rulemaking.

Executive Director Davis attended the Fall meeting of the Coalition for Networked Information, which was followed by a retirement part for Associate Executive Director Joan Lippincott.

Executive Director Davis attended the Annual EDUCAUSE Conference as part of the complimentary exchange among CHEMA members.

Executive Director Davis serves as a member of the IFLA Continuing Professional Development and Workplace Learning (CPDWL) committee and is the lead on the committee’s webinar program.

Associate Director Petrowski represents ACRL on the NISO Z39.7 Standing Committee and attends the monthly conference calls.

Education

Leadership Institutes

- ACRL once again partnered with higher education associations to offer the Women’s Leadership Institute, December 9-12, 2019. Six ACRL members participated in the program focused on women seeking to be leaders in higher education administration.

Immersion Institutes

- Unfortunately, all three Immersion Programs scheduled for FY20 were cancelled due to COVID-19. The summer Immersion Program scheduled for August 2-7, 2020, at Loyola University in Chicago is being rescheduled for July 23-28, 2021, although at this time we are uncertain if it will be a F2F or virtual program. The Regional UCLA Immersion Program scheduled for March 23-26, 2020, has a chance of being offered as a virtual program in spring 2021. The Regional Yale Immersion Program scheduled for May 6-8, 2020, was cancelled.

Licensed Workshops

- RoadShow workshops remain on hold as COVID-19 impacts the viability of safely conducting large in-person events. Although unsuccessful in securing NEH Cares grant funding to support converting workshop content into a virtual environment, workshop teams are moving forward with this transition. It is anticipated that most, if not all, workshop teams will have some form of virtual offering ready for delivery in FY21.

- Due to the impact of COVID-19, all scheduled licensed workshops for the remainder of FY20 have been indefinitely postponed. ACRL staff are working with workshop teams on plans to convert workshop content into a virtual environment, pending the success of the NEH Cares proposal funding.

- As of March 25, 2020, 9 licensed workshops (RoadShows) have been delivered in FY20. 8 additional workshops had been scheduled for FY20, not including the five annual subsidized Scholarly Communication workshops; however, due to the impact of the novel coronavirus on in-person events, nearly all forthcoming workshops licensed to hosts in FY20 have been postponed indefinitely. Additionally, due to the cancellation of the ALA Annual Conference, the OER preconference has also been canceled. The full breakdown of completed and postponed workshops for FY20 is in the table below:

As of January 3, 2020, 7 licensed workshops (RoadShows) have been delivered in FY20, 7 additional workshops have been scheduled for FY20, not including the five annual subsidized Scholarly Communication workshops. The full breakdown of completed and forthcoming workshop deliveries for FY20 is in the above table.

The Intersections RoadShow will be sunned as of winter 2020 after delivering its final workshop.

ACRL will be adding two new RoadShow workshops to its slate of offerings in 2020. A RoadShow focused on Open Educational Resources & Affordability is currently in development, with an anticipated completion date of May 2020; this workshop will be overseen by ACRL’s New Roles and Changing Landscapes Committee. A team has also been identified to begin developing a workshop curriculum for a RoadShow covering the Scholarship of Teaching and Learning. Curriculum development will begin in February 2020, with an anticipated completion date of August 2020; this workshop will be overseen by ACRL’s Student Learning and Information Literacy Committee.

ACRL staff have worked with leaders of each RoadShow team and oversight committees to submit an ALA Emerging Leader proposal focused on marketing for the RoadShow program.

ACRL will offer the OER RoadShow as a preconference at the 2020 ALA Annual Conference in Chicago.

ACRL Conference

ACRL was forced to cancel the face-to-face portion of the ACRL 2021 Conference scheduled for April 14-17, 2021, in Seattle due to the serious health risks posed by COVID-19. ACRL 2021 will continue as a virtual-only conference held over approximately the same dates. We look forward to applying the community’s ideas, creativity, and enthusiasm during the virtual ACRL 2021. Virtual event platforms are being vetted and both keynotes have agreed to continue with virtual presentations.

The deadline for ACRL 2021 lightning talk, poster session, roundtable discussion, TechConnect presentation, and virtual conference webcast presentations was extended to November 9.

The deadline for ACRL 2021 scholarship applications was October 23 following a two-week extension. The selection committee will review all applications, and applicants will be notified of their status in January 2021.
● The deadline for ACRL 2021 contributed paper, panel session, preconference, and workshop proposals was extended to May 22. Selection committees are currently reviewing proposals with decisions being made by August 2021.
● ACRL staff are prepping the registration and housing site for ACRL 2021. Registration quietly opened in May and staff will review the climate and determine the appropriate time to promote ACRL 2021 registration.
● ACRL 2021 keynote speakers have been confirmed:
  o Opening Keynote - Tressie McMillan Cottom is an award-winning author, researcher, educator, and cultural critic whose work has been recognized nationally and internationally for the urgency and depth of her incisive critical analysis of technology, higher education, class, race, and gender.
  o Closing Keynote - Mona Chalabi is a journalist who really loves numbers. She is the Data Editor of The Guardian where she writes articles, produces documentaries, and illustrates, as well as animates, data.
● May 8 is the deadline for contributed paper, panel session, preconference, and workshop proposals.
● ACRL offered a free webcast on February 12, 2020 for individuals interested in submitting a proposal for ACRL 2021. The webcast provided tips for submitting a successful proposal, explained the review process, and provided an opportunity for Q+A. Nearly 200 individuals participated in the webcast.
● The ACRL 2021 Conference, Ascending into an Open Future Call for Participation was released in October. The Call is available online and was included as an insert in the December issue of C&RL News. The ACRL 2021 conference website (www.acrl.org/acrlconference), also launched in October and has information about tentative schedule, social events, costs and scholarship opportunities.
● For the first time, ACRL is implementing participation limits for speakers. Individuals can submit up to four proposals and can present no more than two times during the conference. This change was made in order to allow as many individuals as possible to participate as conference presenters.
● ACRL is offering a free webcast on February 12, 2020 for individuals interested in submitting a proposal for ACRL 2021. The webcast will provide tips for submitting a successful proposal, explain the review process, and provide an opportunity for Q+A.

Conferences, Preconferences and workshops
● RBMS submitted a Board Action Form requesting the RBMS 2021 Conference in June to take place as a virtual-only event. The RBMS Executive Board, Conference Development Committee and Conference Committee have approved this request.
● The RBMS 2020 Conference has been cancelled. Two-hundred and fifty people had registered (about half of the maximum) and we are working through refund options for registrants and sponsors in a remote environment. The Conference Chairs and content are expected to roll over into RBMS 21 in Milwaukee and the original 21 Conference Chairs have agreed to chair RBMS 22. RBMS expects to return to Indiana University Bloomington in 23, the next available year when ALA is in Chicago again.
● The 61st Annual RBMS Conference will take place June 23 – 26, 2020 at Indiana University Bloomington, IN. The theme is Power, Resistance, and Leadership. Registration and housing will open in early February.
● ACRL has canceled its full-day preconference, “Open Educational Resources and Affordability Road Show” scheduled for June 26, 2020, in Chicago. Staff and presenters are exploring virtual options for this content.
Annual Conference Programs

- ACRL received 45 program submissions for the 2021 ALA Annual Conference, which is a 43% decrease from the number of 2020 ALA Annual Conference proposals. The ACRL Professional Development Committee reviewed proposals and selected 20 programs (# of program slots was designated by ALA Conference Services). Based on the large number of submissions, the acceptance rate for 2021 Annual Programs was 44%.
- ACRL Together Wherever, a week of virtual programming and networking opportunities for the academic and research library community, was held in early June 2020. ACRL Together Wherever featured 14 high-quality programs that were originally accepted as ACRL Annual Conference programs for the F2F ALA Conference. ATW was presented free of charge to all with a suggested donation, with 100% of donations going to the ACRL Advancement Fund to support programs and initiatives that strengthen ACRL’s influence in higher education and its ability to create diverse and inclusive communities in the association and the profession. More than 2,769 individuals signed up for the virtual event, accounting for nearly 4,600 live webcast views.
- ACRL Together Wherever, a freely available donation-based virtual week of programming, will take place June 8-12, 2020, and feature 14 ACRL programs that were originally scheduled to take place at the 2020 ALA Annual Conference. One ACRL program, “A River Ran Through It: Resilience, Teamwork, and Re-imagining the Library after a Disaster #betterthanever,” will be included in the ALA Virtual Conference. As of June 5, 1,815 unique individuals have registered for Together Wherever. Most attendees have registered for multiple programs, with 5,800 webinar registrations to date.
- The 2020 ALA Annual Conference has been cancelled. Program planners and ACRL units have been notified that ALA has a working group developing a virtual alternative. It is expected that some, but by no means all, programs will be included in the virtual conference.
- ACRL received 79 program submissions for the 2020 ALA Annual Conference. The ACRL Professional Development Committee reviewed proposals and selected 21 programs (# of program slots was designated by ALA Conference Services). Based on the large number of submissions, the acceptance rate for 2020 Annual Programs was only 26%.

Project Outcome for Academic Libraries

- Between June 5 and October 30, we offered 1 one-hour webinar and 1 online two-hour workshop. Please see the online learning section below for registration details for the two-hour workshop.
- Between March 26 and June 5, we offered 3 one-hour webinars and 2 online two-hour workshops. The webinars reached a combined 467 people live (plus 657 views of the recording online). The online workshops - the first delivered in this format - reached 78 active participants at virtual conferences organized in New York and California.
- Between January 3 and March 25, we offered 2 half-day workshops, 1 one-hour presentation, and 2 webinars. The in-person workshops reached 56 participants in two states, primarily community college librarians. The webinars reached 383 participants live and got an additional 486 views on YouTube.
- Between November 1 and January 3, we offered 6 half-day workshops and 2 one-hour presentations that reached 145 people in 5 states. Of those, 123 attendees responded to a survey: 95% (117) said they learned something new they can apply to their work, 90% (111) said they feel more confident using Project Outcome, 97% (119) intend to share what they learned with their colleagues, and 98% (120) said they are more aware of the tools and resources available through Project Outcome.

Member Engagement

Membership units/Governance

- As of September 1, 2020, the Distance Learning Section (DLS) is now named the Distance and Online Learning Section (DOLS).
- At AC20, the Board:
  - Renewed for three-year terms with new charges the Library Marketing and Outreach Interest Group and Digital Badges Interest Group.
  - Renewed for three-year terms the Academic Library Services for Graduate Students, History Librarians Interest Group, and Research Assessment and Metrics Interest Group.
  - Merged the Global Library Services Discussion Group with the International Perspectives Discussion Group.
  - Approved division-level committee composition update to include an excerpt from the ACRL Guide to Policies and Procedures, “Since it is important that the vice-chair/chair be knowledgeable about the responsibilities and concerns of the committee, it is suggested that the committee vice-chair/chair be selected from the existing committee membership.”
  - Updated the name, charge, and composition to reflect the creation of a new ALA division—Core: Leadership, Infrastructure, Futures—for the Hugh C. Atkinson Memorial and Award Committee and ACRL/LLAMA Interdivisional Academic Library Facilities Survey Editorial Board.
- The Board rescinded the previously approved FY21 dues increase for personal and retired members as a symbolic gesture of solidarity and compassion during the COVID-19 pandemic. The FY21 rates will be:
  - Personal members: $68
  - Retired members: $44
  - Student members: $5 (Confirmed the $5 student dues rate through FY22 for a total of five years.)
- The ACRL Board approved the request to revise the name, charge and descriptor for the ACRL Personnel Administrators & Staff Development Discussion Group. It is now called Human Resources and Organizational Development Discussion Group.
- The ACRL Board approved the request to revise the charge for the ACRL Research Assessment and Metrics Interest Group.
- The ACRL Board approved the request to establish the ACRL Librarians from Very Small Academic Institutions Division-level Discussion Group.
ACRL Vice-President Jon Cawthorne was a speaker at Incoming ALA President-Elect Patty Wong’s “The Library Community Moving Forward in the New Normal” webinar, which was presented by AASL, ACRL, PLA, and the ALA Chapter Relations and Public Programs offices, with support from United for Libraries. The webinar featured insight and discussion with leaders from state, public, academic, and school libraries on the continued efforts and strategies to reopen library facilities across the country.

The Community and Junior College Library Section sponsored a free online discussion forum, “Let’s talk about it: Plans for Library Reopening,” on June 1, 2020.

On April 8, 2020, the ACRL Board of Directors approved a new Diversity Alliance Task Force, charge, tasks, composition and timeline.

The ACRL volunteer deadline was February 14, 2020. The ACRL Appointments Committee is working with Vice-President Jon Cawthorne to complete division-level committee appointments by late spring. ACRL sections are also completing their appointments. This year, we are purposefully slowing down the timeline. We understand that members’ personal and professional obligations may have shifted due to the impact of COVID-19, and want to ensure those offered appointments you have extra time to carefully consider whether they are able to accept.

ACRL will shift its annual Virtual Leader Orientation a month later than usual to early June 2020 for new leaders, who are appointed to committees, sections, discussion group, and interest groups. Leaders and current members will receive a recorded orientation, and will be invited to ask questions during a live Q&A with ACRL presidents and staff.

The ACRL Board held a virtual Fall Board meeting on November 19th, 2019. During this meeting they:

- Approved the creation of the Language and Linguistics Discussion Group
- approved the budget assumptions for FY21 as recommended by the Budget & Finance Committee
- approved the dissolution of the New Members Discussion Group
- approved the dissolution of the Continuing Education and Professional Development Discussion Group
- approved the dissolution of the Western New York/Ontario Chapter
- approved the change of the name from Distance Learning Section (DLS) to Distance and Online Learning Section (DOLS)
- learned more about the governance changes proposed by the Steering Committee on Organizational Effectiveness (SCOE)

In 2020 ACRL is sponsoring 9 Emerging Leaders, including 4 sponsored by sections (CJCLS/IS, RBMS, STS, and ULS).

ACRL will pilot a virtual ACRL Leadership Council in lieu of a face-to-face meeting during the ALA 2020 Midwinter Meeting in Philadelphia. The virtual session will be held January 16, 2020 from 2:00-3:30 PM.

The ACRL Membership Committee sponsored 2 webcasts for members including, “Get Involved: Everything You Need to Know About Volunteering for an ACRL Committee” (69 views) on December 10, 2019 and “Making Yourself Marketable for Academic Library Positions” (204 views) on November 12, 2019.

The annual Call for Volunteers for members to volunteer for a division-level committee or section was launched on December 4, 2019, and was pushed out on ACRL marketing channels. The call will be open through February 14, 2020.
Awards

- The call for nominations for ACRL Awards has opened, with a deadline of December 4 for most awards.
- ACRL President Karen Munro will recognize the 2020 Academic/Research Librarian of the Year Award, Excellence in Academic Libraries Awards, and the cross-divisional Hugh C. Atkinson Memorial Award during the President’s Program on June 10, 2020, as part of ACRL Together Wherever.
- Nevada State College (college), Santa Rosa Junior College (community college), and the University of Maryland (university) have been selected as the 2020 recipients of the Excellence in Academic Libraries Award. Ceremonies on each campus, originally scheduled for spring 2020, have been postponed indefinitely due to the novel coronavirus.
- John E. Ulmschneider, Dean of Libraries and University Librarian at Virginia Commonwealth University, has been selected as the 2020 Academic/Research Librarian of the Year. Staff is developing alternate plans for the award presentation, originally scheduled to be presented during the ALA Annual Conference in Chicago.
- Applications were received for 19 ACRL awards (two awards are not offered in 2020; the STS Innovation and Oberly awards not offered in 2020 award season). Award committees will convene to select winners in January.

Special events at ALA Conferences

- Since the Midwinter Meeting is now virtual, all special events are cancelled.
- Since the ALA Annual Conference is cancelled, all events are cancelled. Event contracts had not yet been signed and registration sites were not launched so the administrative implications are minimal.
- ACRL sections and interest groups will host five social events during the ALA Midwinter Meeting in Philadelphia.

Consulting services

- Strategic planning work for a client continues.
- Organization development for a new client has begun.
- A virtual external review is in progress.
- Submitted proposal to prospective client for organization development.
- Amended contract to continue providing support for ALA Census 2020 efforts.
- Continued providing support to ALA Census 2020 efforts with additional focus groups, tip sheets, webinars, and publications.
- Two external review reports were submitted in January.
- A staff retreat and facilitated meeting were conducted in January.
- A strategic planning retreat was conducted in February.
- Ongoing strategic planning work for a client is in progress.
- External review site visit in planning stages.
- Submitted proposal to prospective client for retreat.
- Continued providing support to ALA Census 2020 efforts with additional focus groups, tip sheets, webinars, and publications.
- An external review report was submitted in November.
- A site visit for an external review was conducted in November.
- A staff retreat and facilitated meeting is scheduled for January.
- A strategic planning retreat is scheduled for January.
Ongoing strategic planning work for a client is in progress.

Fundraising

- Current Friends Fund balances are as follows: Advancement Fund ($21,809), ACRL Conference Scholarship Fund ($48,124), and RBMS Scholarship Fund ($22,473). Between June 6 - Oct. 30, 2020, ACRL received $17,455 in gifts from 135 donors.
- Current Friends Fund balances are as follows: Advancement Fund ($38,114), ACRL Conference Scholarship Fund ($33,894), and RBMS Scholarship Fund ($20,793). More than 164 individuals donated $4,076 to the ACRL Advancement Fund in response to an appeal in connection with the ACRL Together Wherever virtual event. Twenty-six current and former ACRL Board members donated $5,052 to fund ACRL 2021 Conference scholarships in honor of Mary Ellen K. Davis.
- ACRL has raised $28,116 since September 1, 2019. The ACRL Conference Scholarship Fund stands at $32,374 (amount 54% of the $60,000 goal approved by the ACRL Board).
- ACRL has raised $23,430 since September 1, 2019 and the 2020 Giving Tuesday campaign was particularly successful. Donors provided $7,750 in matching funds and as of January 2, 2020, we had received an additional $8,380 in matching gifts for a 100% match rate. Nine new donors contributed to the Giving Tuesday campaign as well as six former donors.

Publications

COVID-19 Publications

- C&RL News continues to publish articles addressing the COVID-19 pandemic. “Community sourcing a response to COVID-19: A campus oral history project records the experiences of Seton Hall University’s students, staff, and faculty during the pandemic” appeared in the June issue, “Four health science librarians’ experiences: How they responded to the COVID-19 pandemic crisis” and “Library strategic planning after COVID-19: Don’t fight the last war” appeared in the July/August issue, “Redistributing work during COVID-19: Penn State University Libraries’ job bank” and “COVID-19, accessibility, and libraries: A call to action” appeared in the September issue, and “Reflections: Middle management during the pandemic” and “Activating agency in the time of COVID-19: Cultivating relationships for resilience” ran in the October issue. Several new essays on ACRLog focus on COVID responses and personal reflections as the pandemic continues.
- Several essays on ACRLog have focused on COVID-19 responses and personal reflections from academic/research librarians. C&RL News published “COVID-19 demonstrates the value of open access: What happens next?” in the May 2020 issue. Several other articles on COVID-19 related topics are planned for the June and July/August issues.
- ACRL published a Pandemic Resources for Academic Libraries LibGuide in mid/late-March to support the academic and research library community during global public health crises. The guide features resources for distance education and engagement, free professional development resources, best practices, and up-to-date information from public health officials.
- The ACRL Board of Directors issued a statement on Academic Libraries and COVID-19 on ACRL Insider on March 18. The Board affirmed the statement that ALA and the ALA Allied Professional Association (APA) have made regarding library services during the COVID-19 pandemic and strongly urged the closure of in-person services at academic and research libraries. In alignment with ALA and with APA, the Board also urged libraries to ensure that all library workers receive fully paid leave, including health coverage, while libraries are closed.
A social media series on Librarianship in the Time of Coronavirus launched on ACRL Insider on March 20. To help the academic library community cope and learn from each other in challenging and rapidly changing circumstances, the series posts discussion questions to our social media accounts using the hashtag #COVIDlibrary and encourages the community to share stories and learning experiences in response.

The Board also issued a personal message of support for members during the COVID-19 crisis, which was posted to ACRL Insider April 2, 2020.

Non-periodical Publications

ACRL published 18 new titles in FY20. The final three books were:
- Hidden Architectures of Information Literacy Programs: Structures, Practices, and Contexts, edited by Carolyn Caffrey Gardner, Elizabeth Galoozis, and Rebecca Halpern
- Sharing Spaces and Students: Employing Students in Collaborative Partnerships, by Holly A. Jackson
- Get the Job: Academic Library Hiring for the New Librarian, by Meggan Press

There are 14 new books slated to publish in FY21. The first two to publish were:
- The Library Outreach Cookbook, edited by Ryan L. Sittler and Terra J. Rogerson

The next titles to publish will be:
- Student Wellness and Academic Libraries: Case Studies and Activities for Promoting Health and Success, edited by Sara Holder and Amber Lannon
- Faculty-Librarian Collaborations: International Case Studies and Lesson Plans for Integrating the Information Literacy Framework into Disciplinary Courses, edited by Michael Stoepel, Livia Piotto, Xan Goodman, and Samantha Godbey

We’ve published 15 new titles so far in FY20. Published since the last report:
- Library Partnerships in International Liberal Arts Education: Building Relationships Across Cultural and Institutional Lines, edited by Jeff Hiroshi Gima and Kara Malenfant
- Games and Gamification in Academic Libraries, edited by Stephanie Crowe and Eva Sclippa

There are 3 remaining titles publishing in FY20:
- Hidden Architectures of Information Literacy Programs: Structures, Practices, and Contexts, edited by Carolyn Caffrey Gardner, Elizabeth Galoozis, and Rebecca Halpern
- Sharing Spaces and Students: Employing Students in Collaborative Partnerships, by Holly A. Jackson
- Get the Job: Academic Library Hiring for the New Librarian, by Meggan Press

In February 2020, ACRL’s Publications in Librarianship (PIL) series launched its first open peer review for a monograph manuscript, for Emily Ford’s Stories of Open: Opening Peer Review through Narrative Inquiry. The first open review was a success, and in late May they launched their second, for Envisioning the Framework: A Graphic Guide to Information Literacy edited by Jannette Finch. Stories of Open is expected to publish in Spring 2021, and Envisioning the Framework will follow in Summer 2021.

We’ve published 11 new titles so far in FY20. Published since the last report:
Becoming a Library Leader: Seven Stages of Leadership Development for Academic Librarians, by Shin Freedman and James Freedman
Developing the Next Generation of Library Leaders (PIL #75), by Lori Birrell
Leading Change in Academic Libraries, edited by Colleen Boff and Catherine Cardwell
Learning Beyond the Classroom: Engaging Students in Information Literacy through Co-Curricular Activities, edited by Silvia Vong and Manda Vrkljan
The Critical Thinking about Sources Cookbook, edited by Sarah E. Morris

Soon to publish:
Library Partnerships in International Liberal Arts Education: Building Relationships Across Cultural and Institutional Lines, edited by Jeff Hiroshi Gima and Kara Malenfant
Games and Gamification in Academic Libraries, edited by Stephanie Crowe and Eva Sclippa

We’ve published 7 new titles so far in FY20. Published since the last report:
The Sustainable Library’s Cookbook, edited by Raymond Pun and Gary L. Shaffer
The 360 Librarian: A Framework for Integrating Mindfulness, Emotional Intelligence, and Critical Reflection in the Workplace, by Tammi M. Owens and Carol A. Daul-Elhindi

Soon to publish, 3 titles on leadership that will be co-promoted in January:
Becoming a Library Leader: Seven Stages of Leadership Development for Academic Librarians, by Shin Freedman and James Freedman
Developing the Next Generation of Library Leaders (PIL #75), by Lori Birrell
Leading Change in Academic Libraries, edited by Colleen Boff and Catherine Cardwell

Library Statistics
The 2020 ACRL Academic Library Trends and Statistics Survey is in the field and will close in February 2021. As of October 30, 2020 at least 42 libraries have submitted responses.
The new ACRL/Core Academic Library Facilities Survey is in the field and respondents who complete the annual ACRL survey are being invited to complete it.
The ACRL Academic Library Trends and Statistics Survey incorporates the Integrated Postsecondary Education Data System (IPEDS) Academic Library Component and makes the results available through ACRLMetrics. The 2019 survey closed on April 22, 2020. The response rate for academic libraries in the United States was 51% with 1,634 respondents. The survey also received an additional 33 responses from academic libraries outside the United States. The survey also enables participants to easily transfer their IPEDS responses to the institutional keyholder for the IPEDS survey.
The ACRL/ALA/ARL IPEDS Task Force completed revisions to the instructions for counting digital/e-serials to include COUNTER 5 in advance of the 2020 IPEDS survey launch in September.
In response to the COVID-19 crisis, the Public Library Association (PLA) coordinated with ACRL and several ALA units and other library organizations, including ARL, to survey the library community to understand the current impacts the crisis is having on their operations, programs, services, and finances. The survey closed on May 18 and more than 20% of US academic libraries responded. Results will be shared in a webcast on June 12.
• The deadline for completing the 2019 ACRL Academic Library Trends and Statistics Survey has been extended until April 22, 2020 to allow respondents affected by COVID19 closures to participate. This new deadline aligns with the IPEDS survey closure. To date 1326 respondents have locked their data.
• In February members of the ACRL Academic Library Trends and Statistics Survey Editorial Board reached out to all HBCU library directors who had not yet participated and encouraged them to submit their data.
• The ACRL/LLAMA Academic Library Facility Survey Editorial Board has finalized the basic survey and expect to launch it in January 2020.
• Responses to the 2019 ACRL Trends & Statistics Survey are on par with previous years.

• Since September 1, 2019, the ACRL Academic Library Trends and Statistics Survey Editorial Board and staff have identified 357 new library director contacts, 59 closures, 27 institution name changes, and 15 new institutions and provided updates to Counting Opinions. In November 2019, a college-advising company scuttled its plans to release a list of 952 private, nonprofit colleges that it expects to run out of money and close in the coming years, according to a new financial-modeling tool.

Standards and Guidelines
• The Board approved a revision of the ACRL Code of Ethics for Special Collections Librarians at its June 2020 meeting.
• The Board approved a new Framework for Access Services Librarianship at its spring 2020 meeting.
• The ACRL Board of Directors approved a revised version of the ACRL-RBMS/SAA Guidelines on Access to Research Materials in Archives and Special Collections Libraries in January 2020.

*Most ACRL WordPress sites, with the exception of ACRLog, were offline for a good bit of the summer due to server issues. This resulted in lower than usual posting on, and lack of analytics for, ACRL Insider. ACRL staff are working with the Value of Academic Libraries Committee to integrate content from the VAL WordPress site into a redesigned presence on the main ACRL website. ACRL staff will also work on determining the continued viability of the ACRL TechConnect blog and identify a new blog team as needed.

College & Research Libraries

- Issues published on regular schedule.
- A special issue on the value of academic libraries was published in April 2020. More details are in the Value of Academic Libraries section above.
- Emily Drabinski, Critical Pedagogy Librarian at the Mina Rees Library at the Graduate Center, CUNY, has accepted appointment as the new C&RL reviews editor beginning in July 2020.
- The Publications Coordinating Committee has begun the search process to appoint a new C&RL editor when Wendi Kaspar’s term expires in June 2022. The first step is the formation of a search committee consisting of PCC and C&RL Editorial Board members with a goal of posting the position announcement in summer or early fall 2020. The incoming editor would serve as editor-designate for a year beginning in July 2021 before assuming the editorship.
- An editorial board search committee has made a recommendation for a new book review editor to replace Mark Shelton when his term ends in June 2020. The Publications Coordinating Committee voted to approve the recommendation and the C&RL editor is working to notify the appointee along with the unsuccessful candidates on formal acceptance of the position.

COVID-19 Response

Staff returned to their offices in Middletown on a very limited basis beginning in mid-summer, with attendance regulated by schedule, limited to six people at any one time, and full social-distancing protocols strictly enforced. Overall, most staff have elected to visit the office only at need, particularly to traffic books from publishers to reviewers or to recover and process mail.

The “Resource Round Up” e-newsletter, successor to our popular “Shelter in Place” e-newsletter, is now delivered to about 6,500 recipients. The newsletter has settled into a monthly distribution cycle and continues to highlight currently available resources from Choice, ACRL, and ALA and to point the reader to both complimentary offerings from publishers and relevant content from around the Internet. It currently enjoys a strong 24% open/18% click rate.

Our immediate response to the COVID-19 pandemic was discussed in the previous installment of this document, composed during the initial weeks of the sequestration. These included our Resource Round-Up page on Choice 360, the creation of a Shelter-in-Place (SIP) newsletter, a Facebook group of the same name, and the removal of the paywall at ChoiceReviews.org for subscribers to Choice magazine, who were expected to have difficulty retrieving physical mail. Closer to home, we restructured our workflows to support a review process that was not dependent on the delivery of physical books to Choice and replaced most staff meetings and communications with—what else?—Zoom calls.

Now, two months further on, and on the brink of a phased return to the office for some of the staff, we are in a position to evaluate the effectiveness of our actions. The Shelter in Place Facebook group, created as a private space where professional uncertainty and concerns, particularly those regarding COVID19, can be addressed privately with peers, continues to grow, with 169 members as of this writing. The Shelter in Place newsletter, now delivered weekly to some 6,500 readers, maintains a strong 27% open/24% click rate, and the corresponding COVID-19 Resource Round-Up landing page has had 1,000 visits. Response has been very positive, so much so that in mid-June we will convert SIP to a regular newsletter. The reworked newsletter will continue to source and share pertinent links about reopening strategies from around the country, point to noteworthy content from Choice, ACRL, ALA, and academic publishers, and serve as a source of library-centric news as it pivots from a focus on sheltering in place to becoming a professional-development resource.

Joining many businesses and organizations globally, Choice has had to adapt quickly to new ways of conducting business and keeping our audience informed. In a matter of days after it became clear that we could no longer conduct business as usual, we began to create pathways to our audience that responded to these extraordinary conditions. Working as a team, we compiled a round-up of complimentary resources for academic librarians, sharing useful and timely content from Choice, ACRL, and ALA as well as from academic publishers. This information has been collected on our new COVID-19 Resource Round-Up page (http://www.choice360.org/librarianship/covid-19-resource-round-up), which we are updating daily. In addition, we are sharing the information and resources from the COVID-19 Resource Round-Up via our new “Shelter in Place” e-newsletter. We plan to distribute the newsletter once or twice a week during the nationwide sequestration.

As part of this effort, we have also posted a “Letter from the Publisher,” outlining our response to the pandemic, on Choice360 (http://www.choice360.org/librarianship/covid-19-resource-round-up/letter-to-publishers-covid19), and have sent copies of the letter to approximately 12,000 people who subscribe to Choice newsletters.

To coincide with our “Shelter in Place” offering, Choice has also started a private Facebook group of the same name as a space for our audience to connect and have discussions about professional concerns, make information requests, and share helpful information and conversation among themselves.

The kickoff mailings of Choice’s “Shelter in Place” (SiP) e-newsletters were sent out March 20th and 27th, with robust open (avg 29%) and click (avg 18%) rates. The e-newsletter sign-up links, shared by SiP recipients with colleagues, generated more than 120 new subscribers. The “Shelter in Place” Facebook group has 65 members, with more joining daily.

The notion of sharing complimentary resources seems to have resonated with our current audience and has been attracting new interest in Choice. As a result of SiP communications and the webpage launch, for the period March 16-29, overall page views at Choice360.org have increased 110%, with a 92% increase in visitors, compared to the same period last year.

Physical Processing of Books

In June we emailed publishers to let them know that we were prepared to receive printed books again, and the response has been overwhelming. Publishers are sending us more books that we have capacity for, and we have a backlog in the mailroom waiting to be processed. Getting books to reviewers has added an additional layer of complexity, as many of them are not able to get to their offices on campus, so we have been emailing reviewers to confirm the best shipping address. This process has been further complicated by the USPS slowdown—so much so that books often take three times as long as previously to get to reviewers—and by two recent staff furloughs (weeks of 17 August and 12 October).

Editorial Workflows

But nowhere has the impact of the sequestration been felt more keenly—up to this point, at least—than in the editorial process, where disruptions to the supply of books available for review have led to important and potentially permanent changes in our editorial workflows and publishing output.

As noted above, as soon as it became clear that we would be working from our homes for an extended period, we created a digital workflow to facilitate assigning books for review in the absence of regular deliveries of physical books. In the new workflow, publishers can now upload .pdfs of works they want to be considered for review via a Google form; editors then assign these books by evaluating the .pdfs in our CMS and make them available to the reviewers on that same platform.

This workflow has some advantages. We are receiving manuscripts earlier in their production cycle, and so our reviews are timelier, but leaving aside the utopian language of “digital-first” platforms and “seamless delivery systems,” the reduced delivery of physical books has significant downsides. Publishers are not necessarily equipped to deliver books to us in this way, necessitating an increased volume of publisher communication. When books are delivered, they may arrive in different file types, some with permissions issues. Downstream (as it were), some reviewers are reluctant to review from a .pdf or other format, and since we are not receiving as many printed books, our remaindered book sales have and will continue to suffer. Finally, digital submission of books for review introduces a subroutine designed to ensure that the physical books themselves are ultimately sent to their reviewers, who receive them in lieu of cash payment for their work. In a word, the new workflow is cumbersome and time consuming.

Not surprisingly, all of this has led to a marked reduction in the number of books sent for review. In April we received just 363 .pdfs, a 70% decrease in submitted review titles. Consequently, the number of titles sent to reviewers declined by 58%. In light of this dismal showing for April, we have put some measures in place to support the submission process, including a robust communications effort with publishers and simplified protocols for submitting manuscripts. These efforts have been less successful than we had hoped. Of as May 27th we have received 323 .pdfs to consider for review, and we have sent out 154 titles to reviewers. The cumulative effect of this is discussed in the section below.

Planning for Reentry

As May draws to a close, we are deep into planning for a phased return to the office. Yes, we have learned to work efficiently from home, but no, neither are we so many stand-alone units connected by wires and stabled at our several screens. The intersection of maximum efficiency and maximum safety is somewhere in the middle, so as we return in June our goal is to return to near-normal productivity and something resembling our normal work flows with the minimum number of staff on-site at any one time. For the foreseeable future, and perhaps well beyond that, that number will be quite small and will be governed by the by-now familiar rules of social distancing.

As of this writing we have no clear sense of what the economic impact of the pandemic will be on our business, but our working assumption is that it will closely mirror the impact felt by academic libraries, and librarians, as we all attempt to deal with this continuing crisis. We are equally affected by the financial issues that the ALA itself is facing, issues that will require further sacrifices at Choice as our parent organization attempts to deal with shrinking membership, dwindling revenues, and cost containment.

Choice360.org Relaunch

Easily the high point of our new fiscal year thus far was the launch, on Monday, 28 September, of the new Choice360.org website, featuring over 800 pages of content. Our principal goal in building the new site was to bring all our content, not just our traditional review products, into view and to make them accessible to the reader in as simple and intuitive a fashion as possible. Highlighting our multimedia content was particularly important, and visitors to the site now immediately see our latest webinars and podcasts front and center on the home page. In rethinking site navigation we distributed our resources among six content areas, directly accessible from the menu bar. Podcasts and webinars are found at Media; feature-length articles and interviews, including “Ask an Archivist” and the “University Press Forum,” are found in Features; curated lists and bibliographic essays, in Choice Picks; white papers, in Research; and information about our subscription products, including Choice Reviews and Choice magazine, in Products. Rounding out the content areas is our blog, “The Open Stacks,” which will soon become the home for the racial justice program we are initiating (see below). As some of our content is also published in our newsletters, a prominent sign-up button on the website leaderboard makes subscribing to them much easier than before.

New to this version are the options to search and browse the site. Clicking on the Topics button on the menu bar allows one to find content of all types arranged under some thirty-two topical rubrics, from “Acquisition Models” to “User Experience.” The Search option on the secondary (upper) menu bar, powered by Google, returns results not just from Choice360 but also from our LibGuide site, home of the Choice bibliographic essays, and the Choice Media Channel on YouTube, which archives over 130 of our webinars. Content long buried in the old site is now recoverable through this simple expedient.

Mindful never to overlook a revenue opportunity, we also designed the site to make space for our advertisers and to create additional sponsorship opportunities for them. Most pages have two ad spots: a leaderboard that runs across the header of all pages and a square ad spot midway down on the page. We also have the option to place “Sponsored” tags when posting sponsored content and to include sponsor logos on all webinar, podcast, and blog-like pages.

The new site is built on a WordPress platform and uses the Gutenberg WP, the newest editor for WordPress. WordPress is an industry standard and extremely easy to use, and we now have more control over modifying the style sheet and building new pages while staying true to the site’s core design. And, of course, the design is responsive. Users can visit us on their phone, tablet, and desktop computer.

The developer of our new site, WebSolutions, has submitted designs for all page types, and we are almost done approving their designs. As we do so, we are turning our attention to other issues, the most important of which is how to deal with advertising on our site, specifically, how to ensure that advertising and sponsored content is sufficiently differentiated from native content. We are also investigating how integrations with WebEx, YouTube, and podcast platforms will help increase traffic to our multimedia content and, finally, how to migrate content from the current site and its CMS to the new, WordPress, site. Launch of the new Choice360.org is slated for mid-summer.

Our search for a developer for the rebuilt choice360.org site culminated in January with the selection of WebSolutions, a local design firm with offices in Meriden, Connecticut, as our developer. Work was divided into two projects, Discovery and Production, with the Discovery phase wrapping up at the end of February with the delivery of the information architecture schema, a page map, and comps for the main pages on the new site. Production is now underway, with a projected finish in late May.

Marketing continues its work at broadening Choice brand awareness via social media, advertising, and marketing campaigns. Choice social media pages are consistently active, in part due to interest generated by our webinars and podcast episodes. We welcomed fifty-nine new followers to our Twitter account in January through March. Choice also re-ignited its LinkedIn page in February, and we are hopeful it will help increase brand awareness and website traffic as we share pertinent info with a new audience.

As we reported in the previous installment of this report, one of the unheralded changes taking place at Choice in recent years has been the development of an audience outside of the collection-development space, an audience eager to consume Choice content in formats and on platforms far removed from reviews. The growth of these programs has exposed the need for a more robust version of Choice360, one that will serve as a central hub for engagement with all Choice content and that will be capable of supporting webinar registration, white paper downloads, newsletter enrollment, and so forth, through its back-end integrations with other platforms. Our search for a developer for the rebuilt site began with an RFP distributed in the fall of this year, and during November and December we reviewed three proposals submitted in response, ultimately conducting live interviews with two of the three respondents. We are currently in the process of soliciting final cost estimates from both and will select a development partner in the first half of January.

At the same time, Bill Mickey and Mark Derks have begun conceptualizing a data-centric editorial feature for Choice360, an “academic best sellers” list that collects sales and engagement info for top-selling academic titles in print and ebook formats. We plan to source the data from book distributors and publish monthly tallies.

Choice Reviews and Choice magazine

During the period June through October of this year, Choice reviewers and editors added 1,181 reviews to the Choice Reviews database.

- Number of reviews as of 30 October 2020: 216,132
- Choice Reviews: Subscribing Institutions: 966. Registered users: 12,202
- Choice magazine: Subscribing Institutions: 707

The digital book review workflow described in the last PEAR report was a success and enabled us to continue a comparatively high volume of review assignments, but since then, as distribution of print materials has resumed (see above), and as Choice employees are able to work from the office on limited schedules, we’ve been able to shift back to our hard-copy process.

Recently we have completed production of the December issue of Choice, which features our premier editorial franchise, the annual Outstanding Academic Titles (OAT) list. This year’s list features 531 print and digital resources from 141 publishers. It represents only about 15 percent of all the titles we reviewed during the year (almost 4,000 out of the more than 11,000 received). Nevertheless, it’s always a thrill to compile a list of such distinguished work that’s hundreds of titles long. These works may individually occupy small, highly specialized niches, but in the aggregate they represent an incredible array of scholarship.

Choice magazine subscribers have been contacted via email to offer them complimentary access to Choice Reviews through December 2020. We will reach out to the institutions that sign up in the fall to offer them a substantially discounted rate for adding Choice Reviews to their subscription to the magazine.

Choice Racial Justice Initiative

Choice has embarked on a racial justice initiative, which is manifesting itself in a variety of editorially-driven services and content. Technically, we’ve added new tagging features in our content management system (back end) and in the Choice Reviews online database (front end). These allow us to assign a racial justice tag to appropriate titles we’ve reviewed, which in turn allows our subscribers to filter their searches on Choice Reviews by selecting a racial justice facet. We’ve also retrospectively applied this tag to more than 430 previously-reviewed titles, providing subscribers with a deep well of resources in this subject area. In a modification of our standard review specifications, we now plan to publish ongoing, feature-length (1-2 page) reviews of the newest and most important racial justice titles and resources.

Choice Reviews:

Subscribers with renewals coming due from June through December 2020 were offered an “Early Bird Renewal” discount of $100 if they chose to renew before the end of the academic year (30 June). The offer was a way for libraries to spend unused portions of their FY19-20 budgets rather than risk finding later that subscription monies have been stripped from their 2020-21 budgets. At the same time, we have extended the period of free access to Choice Reviews through the end of the calendar year for all Choice magazine and card subscribers. An email offering deeply discounted Choice Reviews subscriptions to our print subscribers will be sent in November.

Since budget uncertainties are looming for our customers, Choice Reviews subscribers with renewals coming due between June and December, 2020, are being offered an “Early Bird Renewal” discount if they choose to renew before the end of this academic year (June30), allowing libraries to use current-year funds for future renewals.

Skipped Issue of Choice magazine

The most immediate impact of our failure to receive our usual complement of books for review has been a lack of a sufficient number of completed reviews to compose a full issue of Choice magazine. An average issue requires at least 275 reviews in order to maintain the minimum number of pages for our usual binding. Publishing a smaller issue would have required new layouts, a different binding method, moving to different presses at the printer, and an increase in production costs. Ultimately, we decided that the most prudent way to deal with the situation was to take advantage of an opportunity offered by the US Post Office as a result of...
COVID-19 and skip publication of the August issue of the magazine. Skipping the August issue will allow Choice to push reviews already in-house to the September issue and to create a “slush fund” of reviews to help tide us over until the review flow resumes its normal volume.

Fortunately, publication of Choice Reviews is entirely unaffected by the need to compose “editions,” as reviews are published to our database as soon as they have been edited. To redress the loss of the August issue of the magazine, therefore, we have offered our print subscribers free access to Choicereviews.org through the end of the year.

Choice Outstanding Academic Titles

Through August of this year we continued to share curated weekly mini lists of the 2019 Outstanding Academic Titles via social media and on our website as well as through a dedicated weekly e-newsletter. The weekly newsletter has high engagement, with open rates consistently over 45%. Weekly Outstanding Academic Title content accounted for about 10% of the visits to Choice360.org.

The winners of the 2020 Outstanding Academic Titles were notified by mail the week of October 26th. The list of winners will be published in the December 2020 issue of Choice magazine and available as of December 1 on Choice Reviews.

The Outstanding Academic Titles weekly newsletter delivers curated mini lists of OATs and has been attracting high engagement, with open rates consistently over 45%. Content from the newsletter accounted for 10% of the April and May web visits to Choice360.org.

Even though the Outstanding Academic Titles were awarded in December 2019, we continue to share curated weekly “mini lists” via social media and on our website and also with a dedicated weekly e-newsletter, which also contains information about additional Choice content that may be of interest. To date, the OAT e-newsletter has been generating high engagement, with open rates consistently over 40%.

This year, we moved publication of the Outstanding Academic Titles (OAT) list up by one month, to December, placing the list within the calendar year of the titles we reviewed and allowing us to join the ranks of the other end-of-year lists—effectively catching the buzz and public expectation of those other lists. The OATs represent the best of the 4,644 scholarly titles reviewed by Choice Reviews in 2019. This year’s list features 521 books and electronic resources from 134 publishers, comprising only about 11 percent of all the titles we reviewed during the year.

With the annual Outstanding Academic Titles award moving from January to December, much of November and December has been dedicated to the promotion of this prestigious award. Our website, Choice360.org, in particular, has seen a dramatic upturn in OAT traffic. During the period 2–23 December, publication of the list drove 3,543 page views of OAT-related content on Choice360, an increase of some 270% over OAT-related views last year. December 2019 OAT traffic accounted for about 25% of the over 14,000 total page views garnered on the site during that time.

While we continue to share small themed snippets of the list weekly to drive traffic to Choice360, we have started some new initiatives to amplify interest. In an effort to expand awareness of Choice among audiences adjacent to our core, we launched a digital ad in Inside Higher Ed sharing the most popular OAT titles of 2019. Additionally, we are conducting an OAT Social Media Giveaway, a sweepstakes that ran throughout the month.
of December, mainly through Twitter. We are fortunate to have an abundance of donated titles, so many that we will in all likelihood pick multiple winners in January.

Finally, to complement the curated weekly offerings noted above we are giving website visitors the option of signing up for a weekly eNewsletter, delivering the current lists of OATs as well as information about other Choice content that may be of interest. We have had 200 sign-ups since November.

Resources for College Libraries
RCL and RCL Career Resources subject editors added 2,203 titles during this period (from user database 26 May–19 October), and the RCL database now holds 101,062 titles in total. Summer is the time for our annual peer review of selected subject area holdings; this year’s review of the sixteen arts and humanities disciplines concluded with forty-four reports collected, a 94% return rate. In order to gauge reviewer assessment of the peer review process, a survey was developed and deployed to 180 past RCL peer reviewers, closing with a 45% response rate.

Other highlights include:

- Addition of a new linguistics subject collection, featuring nearly 600 core titles.
- Broadcast of an RCL-BBAS focused webinar, “Qualitative Collection Assessment – Building Authoritative and Accessible Collections,” attracting 997 registrants and 388 attendees
- Final QA of the Bowker Book Analysis System (BBAS) product upgrades in preparation for launch.

RCL subject editors added 818 titles to the database during this period (from database 23 March – 25 May 2020), with 99,740 records in total. Peer review recruiting for the RCL Arts and Humanities subjects commenced, with 32 reviewers committed as of this writing. Deselection guidelines were developed and distributed to all editors as a project-wide weeding initiative began with an editorial e-forum. The Bowker Book Analysis System assessment tool’s user interface was upgraded and released in pre-production for testing; additional product enhancements were prioritized with ProQuest partners for a scheduled summer production and release.

Subject editors added 1,013 titles to the RCL database during this period (from database 18 December 2019 – 22 March 2020), with 99,663 records in total. A project to improve user database discovery via Browse was completed, impacting 16,919 titles across 817 subject headings. A new Linguistics subject collection with approximately 550 titles went out for peer review. Subject taxonomy improvements in the areas of Drama and Theater, Germanic Languages and Literatures, and Journalism and Communication were implemented in the RCLAS editorial system. Revision materials for the annual editorial update were sent to all editors, including active title lists, OOP title lists, and subject data. New subject editors joined the project in Education, Law, and Sociology. With ProQuest partners, we produced new print and digital ads, including four subject editor ads.

Subject editors added 68 titles to the RCL database during this period (16 Oct – 17 December 2019), resulting in 99,574 total records. As the editorial revision cycle concluded with the end of the calendar year, administrative work for the coming editorial period commenced, including: editorial meetings to discuss implementing peer reviewers’ recommendations, distributing letters of acknowledgment and subject editor agreements, processing and filtering new edition reports, and recruiting for editorial vacancies.

Sponsored Content
Marketing continues its work at broadening Choice brand awareness via social media and advertising but has purposely refrained from aggressive sales efforts during April and May in deference to the seriousness of the COVID pandemic. Choice social media pages continue to be consistently active; a considerable portion of the activity can be attributed to increased interest in our live and archived webinar offerings during this period. Twenty-two percent of visits to Choice360 are tied directly to Choice webinars.

Content Marketing—including webinars, podcasts, white papers, newsletters, and eBlasts—has taken the lead in advertising sales over print and online banners. January thru March brought in $72.5K for print and online banner revenue, while content marketing generated $93K. Webinars thru March are up 47% over last year, while podcasts are up 40%. With over half the year gone, we expect this trend to continue and will likely see content marketing surpass print advertising by a wide margin.

Marketing continues its work at broadening Choice brand awareness via social media, advertising, and marketing campaigns. Choice social media pages have continued to be quite active, in part due to interest generated by a very popular APA webinar as well as by our Outstanding Academic Titles promotional efforts (see above). Many of the latest social media posts were shared by our audience, driving a good amount of traffic to our Choice360 web site.

Webinars
During the period June through October, 2020, Choice hosted twenty sponsored webinars, with averages of 1,268 registrants and 591 attendees. The best attended webinar was "A Step-by-Step Guide for APA Style Student Papers," (3,167 registrants, 1,494 attendees). Of the twenty webinars, nine garnered over 1,000 registrations. During this five-month period, Choice hosted more webinars than during any other five-month period during the life of the program.

From 31 March to the end of May Choice hosted seven sponsored webinars, with 7,177 total registrations (1,025 average registrations per webinar) and 3,818 attendees total (averaging 545 attendees per webinar). Significantly, attendance at our webinars, which normally runs in the 38% to 40% range, rose to 53% for these seven, a clear indication of the enhanced need for information and communication among home-bound librarians.

The best attended webinar was "Navigating Accessibility to Support All Library Users," (1,952 registrants, 1,027 attendees). Eli Cole provided live interpretation into American Sign Language, and Chelsea Lockwood transcribed the webinar in real-time.

Choice’s podcast, The Authority File, continues to post strong numbers, with a current average of 1,787 downloads and 1,642 streams per month, year to date. Bill Mickey and Mark Derks, the Authority File host and producer respectively, staffed a booth at the 2019 Charleston Conference and recorded several episodes live on the show floor. At this show, they invited passersby to share their expertise, and recorded two brief, spontaneous conversations with librarians from Middle Tennessee State University, which appear as the show’s first “bonus” content.

Patron Driven

Our newest, narrative-style podcast project, Patron Driven, launched in June. Originally timed to coincide with the ALA Annual Conference, the launch was deprived of the fanfare we had planned for the live event, which slowed uptake of “The Heart of the Campus,” the five-episode first “season,” which follows four library staffers through the destruction and rebuilding of their Houston-area community college library following Hurricane Harvey, Dedicated promotion started in April and continued through July via digital ads, social media, and direct reach-outs to state library groups.

Choice’s podcast, The Authority File, continues to post strong numbers, with a current average of 1,564 downloads and 1,950 streams per month. Through May, podcast traffic is running 29% higher than at this time last year

April saw MIT Press return as a sponsor to discuss their $800,000 Arcadia Foundation grant to develop a sustainable business model for open access monographs, and May brought on two sponsors, SAGE, who brought on three librarians to discuss their approaches to teaching information literacy, and Wilfrid Laurier University Press, who brought on the press’ author Karina Vernon to discuss the deeply personal topic of constructing an archive of Canadian Black Prairie denizens.

Our newest, narrative-style podcast project, Patron Driven, is progressing nicely. Season One, “The Heart of the Campus,” which follows four library staffers through the destruction and rebuilding of their Houston-area community college library following Hurricane Harvey, is scheduled to launch in late June. As of this writing, we’ve completed script-writing and have moved into the recording phase.

Marketing efforts for Patron Driven began in April, and May saw the release of a three-minute trailer on YouTube and the publication of a series of a dozen posts on Choice’s blog. These are supported by a new landing page for the podcast on Choice360, social media mentions on Choice and ACRL platforms, and multiple Choice and ACRL e-newsletter features and banner placements. In May we sent personal emails to state and regional library associations and contacted media outlets and publications in the Houston region, where the Season One story takes place. To date we have had 640 visitors to the Patron Driven landing page.
Choice Research

Choice published two more research reports in this period: Supporting Scholarly Research: Current and New Opportunities for Academic Libraries” and “Ebook Collection Development in Academic Libraries: Examining Preference, Management, and Purchasing Patterns,” sponsored by ProQuest and OverDrive, respectively. This brings our total number of reports to seven, collectively achieving almost 5,500 downloads, lifetime to date. Like their predecessors, these studies are available on the Choice360 website.

Advertising and Sponsorships

With in-publication advertising shrinking, our sponsored content initiatives continue to grow. The rise in sponsorship revenue is an important indicator of a larger trend at Choice: the development of an audience outside of the collection-development space, an audience eager to consume Choice content in formats and on platforms far removed from reviews. While review-based readership has fallen, we have quietly been amassing a readership of far greater size and diversity around our media-intensive sponsored programs. We now estimate a total Choice audience of upward of 55,000 people, roughly five times the size of ACRL membership.

FY20 closed the year at 91% of budget ($701,000 in gross sales), with webinars and podcasts leading the pack with a combined $249,000 in gross revenue, over 35% of total advertising income. FY21 began with full-year reservations reaching $402,723 (61% of full-year budget) as of the end of October. Webinars and podcasts are once again taking the lead, and we have already reached our full-year budget in both platforms. The migration to our media platforms should continue throughout this fiscal year and next, hand-in-hand with declining print ad sales.

Administration

On a positive note, we are very proud and excited to announce two promotions in the Editorial department. Owing to his continued success at introducing and growing our portfolio of digital products, we have promoted Mark Derks, producer of the Choice webinars and The Authority File podcast, from Digital Media Specialist to Senior Digital Media Producer. Likewise, in recognition of the expanded role that our Humanities editor, Becky Bartlett has taken on in recent months—including staff training and key oversight responsibilities for Choice’s legacy products and editorial technology, we have promoted Becky from Editor to Senior Editor.

Prior to the onset of the pandemic, Choice workflows for the review of books were a mixture of physical and digital processes. Physical copies sent by the publishers were delivered to our offices; editors selected works to review from among those submitted; and the books were mailed to the reviewers. The rest of the process, including the writing, submitting, editing, and publishing of reviews, is (and was) done on Choice Connect, our digital content-management system.

With the publishers, reviewers, and Choice office staff all sheltering in place, books are not being mailed, mail is not being picked up, editors are not in the office to examine candidates for review, and reviewers are not in their offices to receive books, which in any case we are unable to mail (!) In order to continue to publish, the editorial team is rapidly developing a digital workflow for the portion of the process formerly dependent on the delivery of physical books. This will require editors to solicit—and publishers to deliver—digital galleys. Reviewers will read the books selected for review in .pdf form and then submit their reviews on Choice Connect as they have always done. Later, when our lives return to some semblance of normalcy, we will ask publishers to send physical copies of reviewed books to the reviewer, as compensation for their work.

Choice’s Media Channel on YouTube, home to our archive of over 150 of our webinars, has grown to 1,190 subscribers, which opens up opportunities to communicate with subscribers through “Premiers” (a feature that notifies subscribers of new videos), through direct notifications and surveys. It also allows Choice to monetize its channel through Google-driven advertising.

At the beginning of December Sabrina Cofer joined Choice as digital media assistant, a new position in the operations group. Prior to her hiring, Sabrina worked as an intern here at Choice, managing a variety of tasks, including the “Ask an Archivist” feature and writing and production of the APW (Academic Publishing Weekly) newsletter. Her new position encompasses a broad portfolio of responsibilities, including support for webinar and podcast production, creation and scheduling of newsletters, posting content to Choice360, and contributing to our marketing and social media efforts, among others.

White Papers
Choice currently has two more research reports in development, both anchored by surveys. One, a study on e-book acquisition workflows, will be co-authored by John Novak, Collection Development Strategies Librarian, University of Maryland, and L. Angie Ohler, Director of Collection Services, University of Maryland. Publication is scheduled for late summer of this year. The other, scheduled for publication in June, is a study of how academic librarians are supporting researcher workflows. It will be written by Ngoc-Yen Tran, Research Impact Librarian, and Emily Chan, Associate Dean of Libraries, both of San José State University.

Overall, the five Choice white papers previously published continue to attract readers, and by the close of March had been downloaded 4,286 times, not including access from other sites where the white papers have been made available for download.

Mid-December saw the release of the fifth Choice white paper, “Research Data Services in Libraries: Where are We Today?” documenting the range of services currently offered in academic libraries and examining impediments to their implementation. The finished report was published too late for distribution at the Charleston Conference, but its findings were the subject of a Charleston session, “The Time has Come . . . To Talk about Why Research Data Management Isn’t Easy,” featuring the report’s principal authors, Carol Tenopir, University of Tennessee, School of Information Sciences; Robert J. Sandusky, University of Illinois at Chicago, University Library; and Jordan Kaufman, University of Tennessee, Center for Information and Communication Studies.

Overall, the five Choice white papers published thus far continue to gain a steady stream of interest, surpassing 3,900 downloads in late December.

The Choice editorial team has begun the process of assigning and editing ccAdvisor reviews as part of an effort to ramp up content production and make the database a more viable offering to potential subscribers. Thus far, we’re focusing our efforts on a “wish list” of desired reviews provided by the Center for Research Libraries (CRL), one of ccAdvisor’s largest subscribers. Choice editors have been trained on ccAdvisor Connect, our back-end content management system, and have created editorial protocols for the new process. By January, we will have added a monthly CCA quota to the responsibilities of the Choice editors.

The Charleston Library Conference in early November was a major event for Choice, giving us the opportunity to speak with new and prospective CCA subscribers and to host a session, “Through the Looking Glass: Measuring Value in the Nontraditional Database Market,” in conjunction with CRL. The session highlighted some of the recent challenges in navigating the marketplace of “Big Data” and suggested measures to counteract vendor opacity through greater community investment in analysis of the products and providers.

Operations

Operational activities relevant to the quality of ACRL’s strategic and enabling programs and services are reported below.

Staff

- In October 2020, the search for an ACRL Executive Director was launched (ACRL Insider).
- On August 31, Sara Goek's term with ACRL ended and she was hired by PLA. Her duties on Project Outcome for Academic Libraries have been assumed by Gena Davis and on the Value of Academic Libraries initiative by Mary Jane Petrowski.
- A search committee for the ACRL executive director has been formed and hopes to have a new hire in place by January 2021.
- ACRL celebrated the achievements of Mary Ellen Davis before her April 24 retirement, and a named ACRL 2021 Conference scholarship was created by the ACRL Board of Directors.
- Through the NEH CARES: Cultural Organizations grant, ACRL is requesting $300,000 for humanities activities over a 6.5 month period of June 15-Dec 31, 2020. Funding would primarily cover staff salaries and benefits, with other direct costs of consultant services and e-learning platform, and indirect costs. The notification date is June 15, 2020.
- ACRL Executive Director Mary Ellen Davis announced her retirement, which will be effective April 24, 2020. Kara Malenfant, ACRL senior strategist for special initiatives, will serve as association interim executive director. ALA has announced a hiring freeze but the ACRL Presidents have reached out to the new ALA ED Tracie Hall to explore launching the search this spring.
- Davis has been working closely with Malenfant to highlight various work of the ED so that the transition will be smooth. Davis is happy to be contacted after retirement as needed.
- Executive Director Davis visited the Choice office in December and met with the entire staff as well various units.

ACRL Staff & ALA

- ACRL Interim Executive Director Kara Malenfant is serving as a staff representative on the ALA Operating Agreement Working Group.
- Interim Executive Director Malenfant continues service on ALA’s Senior Management team, participating in weekly meetings with ALA Executive Director Tracie Hall.
- During summer 2020, ALA Executive Director Hall hosted several charettes, and invited ALA staff to help brainstorm new ideas for programming, efficiencies, and revenue. ACRL staff were invited to attend some of these charrettes. The categories included Conference; Continuing Education; External Relationship Development (including Branding; Advocacy; Commerce and Development); Membership; Program Assessment; Publishing; Research and Design; Staffing efficiencies, synergies and alignment.

- ALA delivered a termination to the outsourced accounting services firm on September 23 with a 60-day notice and a transition to bring services back in house is underway.
- As a cost reduction tactic, all ALA staff took one furlough week in FY20 and are taking five weeks of furlough in FY21.
- Earlier this year, the association received federal assistance through the Payroll Protection Program and an Economic Injury Disaster Loan to offset large revenue losses in FY20.
- ACRL President Cawthorne and Immediate Past-President Munro are moving the resolution in honor of Mary Ellen Davis to ALA Council, striking out the clause conferring emerita title after a determination by a working group of the ALA Executive Board.
- Due to Illinois’ shelter-in-place mandate through May 31, 2020, the move-in date to the new ALA Headquarters has been postponed from May to June. In May, packing was completed and the old 50 E Huron Street headquarters was vacated for the new tenant. ALA will continue to monitor the shelter-in-place mandate, and may adjust the move-in date to the new headquarters as needed.
- At the end of April, all ALA units submitted updated FY20 projections based on the impact of COVID-19. BARC reviewed the projections at its May 19, 2020 virtual meeting.
- In November 2019, ALA outsourced its accounting department from in-house to a contractor in India. Training was held for staff between November 2019 to February 2020, and staff began using the new processes in February 2020. Unfortunately, there have been delays and monthly financial reports are several months past release date. This is due to:
  o ALA’s contractor in India has been on lockdown since March 25, 2020.
  o The team has experienced many challenges with moving to a work-from-home environment as the outsourcing industry is highly regulated by the Indian government. In addition, there is a shortage of laptops in India.
  o Some of the team that was in place prior to COVID-19 went back to their homes and have not been able to return to the city of Bangalore. So new staff have been introduced to the team and they are currently being trained.
- The ALA Executive Board is reviewing the process for emeritus, and will review at its next meeting in June 2020. Staff and the presidents will wait to send the resolution in honor of Mary Ellen Davis, which included the title of emeritus, until the ALA Executive Board approves a process.
- ACRL Program Coordinator Lauren Carlton continues to serve on an ALA staff working group to review and improve the user experience for ALA Connect.
- ALA’s planned move date to the new headquarters building (225 N Michigan Ave, Suite 1300, Chicago, IL 60601) is April 27, 2020. ALA management is closely monitoring shelter-in-place mandates due to COVID-19 and is exploring options and processes to ensure ALA staff can safely pack-up their offices and prepare for the move. It is expected that this move will be delayed.
- ALA Finance staff are exploring applying for CAREs funding to provide support to ALA during this unprecedented time.
- Executive Director Davis continues service on ALA’s Senior Management team, participating in weekly meetings with Tracie Hall leading them since early March. Davis led a staff working group to develop a process for dealing with “snail mail” while ALA staff are working under “shelter-in-place” guidelines.
● ACRL Program Coordinator Lauren Carlton is part of an ALA Connect Staff Admin group that meets every other week to discuss sitewide improvements.

● Kara Malenfant is on ALA’s Rapid Response Team to deal with the COVID-19 and Margot Conahan has been named to a planning group for a virtual ALA Annual Conference.

● ACRL Program Manager for Strategic Development Allison Payne is working with ACRL staff to develop a file name structure and metadata for ACRL contracts that will be uploaded to new ALA contract repository.

● ACRL Program Coordinator Gena Parsons-Diamond is representing ACRL on the ALA Move Team, and Gena will let ACRL staff know how to pack, label, and box their belongings for the move to 225 N Michigan.

● Executive Director Davis continued service on ALA’s Senior Management team, participating in weekly meetings, interview of the candidates for ALA Executive Director, and a two-day budget retreat to prepare for FY21.

● ED Davis was appointed to the staff Information Technology Advisory Committee whose charge is to look at IT strategically across the association.

● Megan Griffin, Senior Program Officer, and Allison Payne, Program Manager for Strategic Initiatives, continue to attend an ALA Connect Staff Admin group that meets every other week to discuss sitewide improvements. The group has worked on an updated navigation bar, and has given input for a forthcoming redesign (expected for February 2020).

● During September through December 2019, Allison Payne served on the ContractSafe ALA Staff Working Group to help create a taxonomy and organizational structure for ALA’s forthcoming contract repository to be used by ALA staff.
Enabling Programs and Services
Key Performance Indicators (KPIs)
Report Period: June 1, 2020 – October 30, 2020

* Note: Section A: Membership Engagement includes data through February 2020. Typically, the Board would review data through April or May at their June meetings, but ALA is only able to provide membership reports through February 2020. Section B: Education has been updated through May 31, 2020.

Enabling programs and services key performance indicators (KPI)
ACRL is committed to assessing progress in advancing the Plan for Excellence, but acknowledges that the entire plan does not need to be measured at one time. The following goals have been identified as the measurement focus for FY20 and the progress toward each to date is reported below.

Section A: Member Engagement
Goals: Maintain 96.5% (9,801) of ACRL’s FY19 membership in FY20 and ensure that 52.5% of new members who joined ACRL between May 2018 – March 2019 renew their membership in FY20. The target retention rate is based on the average new member retention rate in the last 5 ACRL non-conference years.

Subject: Dissolving the MLA International Bibliography Discussion Group

Date submitted: 10/09/2020

Background
The MLA International Bibliography was originally available from multiple library vendors (ProQuest, Gale, EBSCO, etc.), which motivated much of the group’s discussions. The MLA entered into an exclusive agreement with EBSCO and has been available only on their platform since January 2019, removing much of the motivation for discussion. In recent years, the group’s participation has declined and finding new leadership has proven difficult. While there may in the future arise a new need for such a discussion group, it seems at this point best to let the MLA to schedule their own presentations and conversations as any vendor might, and to direct what enthusiasm may remain for discussing the MLA International Bibliography specifically into the larger conversations and activities conducted by LES and other sections of ACRL that focus on literary scholarship.

Stakeholders
Multiple ALA/ACRL listservs (managed external to ALA’s Sympa listserv platform) were notified by email. Several librarians responded that while they had appreciated the group’s discussions in the past, they agreed that it seemed best to lay the group down. The MLA International Bibliography was also consulted; they presented no objections.

Fiscal and Staffing Impact
If approved, ACRL staff will update the ACRL Directory of Leadership, archive and delete the ALA Connect Community, update the internal member database, and update ACRL membership materials to reflect the dissolution.

Action Recommended
That the ACRL Board of Directors approves dissolving the MLA International Bibliography Discussion Group.
Strategic Goal Area Supported

Subject: Dissolve the Library and Information Science Collection Discussion Group

Submitted by: Rachael Clark, Co-convener, ACRL Library and Information Science Collection Discussion Group

Date submitted: September 9, 2020

Background
When Duncan Stewart and I took over as co-conveners of this discussion group a few years ago, we inherited something on life support and tried to revive it to be current and relevant. We were not successful in our endeavor and would like to recommend the group be dissolved for the following reasons:

We recognized that collections issues seem to be more similar across disciplines now than they were when the group was first established. Also, we learned the name and focus of our group is not immediately apparent to its members. This became obvious when we held an in-person meeting at ALA-Midwinter in Seattle. It was very well attended and the conversation was lively! Unfortunately, none of the attendees were LIS liaisons or Collections Librarians. Instead, they were Liaison Librarians in other disciplines looking for a place to talk about their work. As a result, we strongly considered revamping the name and mission of our group to fill the need we observed. We hoped to reinvigorate the group by making it more liaison work-focused, but, for a variety of reasons, were unable to proceed with our plans.

Stakeholders
Duncan Stewart and Rachael Clark, Co-convener, jointly made the decision to dissolve this group. We hope this action will clear space for new development.

Fiscal and Staffing Impact
If approved, staff will update the online Directory of Leadership and ALA membership materials to reflect the dissolution of the interest group.
Action Recommended

Subject: ACRL Framework for Impactful Scholarship and Metrics

Submitted by: Jennifer Steele, ACRL Standards Committee Chair

Date submitted: October 21, 2020

Background

In 2018, the ACRL Board of Directors appointed the ACRL Impactful Scholarship and Metrics Task Force with the charge to create a new ACRL framework that recommends effective practices regarding the evaluation of academic librarian scholarship that supports librarians in a variety of academic appointments, with differing scholarly expectations, while acknowledging and encouraging impactful scholarship venues within academic librarianship.

The task force went to work developing a draft of the new framework, issuing initial calls for community feedback on ACRL Insider in March 2019, through an open forum at the ACRL 2019 conference in April 2019, and in C&RL News in May 2019. Comments and feedback were incorporated into the initial draft of the framework, which was submitted to a variety of lists and social media sites for comment in October 2019, including Scholcomm-L, STS-L, SPARC, and a number of Facebook and LinkedIn groups. Additional comment on the draft was sought from a variety of subject experts. Full details on draft distribution and calls for comments are available in the attached transmittal form.

Comments were incorporated into the document, which was sent to the ACRL Standards Committee for review in March 2020. Following a brief delay due to outbreak of the COVID-19 pandemic, the Standards Committee sent a small number of feedback items back to the task force in June 2020. The task force incorporated the feedback into a final draft of the new framework, to which the Standards Committee gave their final approval in October 2020.

Action Recommended

That the ACRL Board of Directors gives final approval to the new ACRL Framework for Impactful Scholarship and Metrics.

ACRL Framework for Impactful Scholarship and Metrics

Introduction to the framework

Task Force Background
The ACRL Impactful Scholarship and Metrics Task Force was formed primarily to create a framework for the measurement and evaluation of academic librarian scholarship. The framework is designed to address gaps between current scholarly evaluation practices and impactful scholarly activities within academic librarianship, including ways to measure and evaluate the impact of a wide range of research outputs.

Framework Categories
This framework outlines two primary impact categories. The first category, “Scholarly Impact,” roughly mirrors traditional impact measurements and is informed by citation-based metrics, as well as some other commonly employed metrics, such as acceptance rate. The second category, “Practitioner Impact,” describes measurements that reflect the practitioner community of academic librarians and other related professionals/users. These metrics are more qualitative, less traditional, and may be deployed independently or in complement with other evidence of impact to describe a more complete story of librarian scholarship. This framework attempts to describe a wide range of potential avenues for output - that is, ways in which librarians can share their research/scholarship with others. In cases where it was unclear whether an avenue could be considered scholarly in character, the framework aims for inclusion.

Recommended Use
This framework is intended as a tool for academic librarians and their institutions to further understand and contextualize the range and diversity of scholarly activities which may be considered impactful within academic librarianship. Generally speaking, it does not set out to prescribe or recommend specific practices. Accordingly, the framework is best employed as an entryway for discussion at individual institutions within the context of existing guidelines and expectations set forth for academic librarians by those respective institutions. Institutions prioritizing different metrics or areas of scholarly output can adopt areas of the framework that most closely align with institutional values and priorities.
Additionally, it is recommended that institutions consider and discuss, along with this framework, other priorities set forth by ACRL that may complicate the use of the current measurements of scholarship and catalyze the need for change. For example:

- Open access and open scholarship. In April 2019, ACRL recommended “as standard practice that academic librarians publish in open access venues.”
- Equity, diversity, and inclusion. In June 2019, ACRL outlined priorities and plans to reshape the current system of scholarly communications to increase equity and inclusivity.

While by no means an exhaustive list of the values that institutions should discuss and balance, both of these priorities place value on a scholarly infrastructure that is new, emerging, different, and may not completely align with current evaluative practices. We urge institutions to discuss their core institutional values and priorities, and how support for open access, equity and inclusion, and impact will be represented by the codified institutional guidelines, expectations, and rank/tenure/promotion/evaluation processes. For example, an institutional commitment to open access may lead to publications in venues with higher acceptance rates than journals ranked as ‘top’ journals in the field. We suggest that institutions consider ways to acknowledge and value these concepts in their evaluative practices.

Along with the institutional discussion, the task force supports the individual framing of metrics—that is, the ability for academic librarians to employ metrics that best tell their impact story. This echoes language found in several institutional guidelines, which leave the documentation and justification of impact up to the individual librarian.

Framework Limitations and Exclusions

It is well acknowledged that metrics are imperfect measures for qualitative values such as excellence, impact, and engagement. This framework assigns metrics to categories, based on currently available resources and technologies, but does not place judgment on their individual use or meaning beyond their value as ways of measuring, describing, and contextualizing these larger concepts.

Neither the research outputs nor suggested measurements are exhaustive, and should not be used to discount other methods of scholarly distribution and measurement employed.
successfully by LIS professionals. For example, practical exclusions to the current framework include:

- Grants. Grants do not appear in the framework as either an output or metric because of their innate diversity and inconsistent treatment in the field. Some institutions treat librarian grant applications as independent scholarly outputs, while others consider them secondary measures of scholarly impact.

- Community service. Although some fields consider community service a component of practitioner impact, it is not included in the framework, due to the number of variables at play in its relevant evaluation.

- Journal rankings. While journal rankings are used by some institutions to evaluate the impact of scholarly journal articles, rankings are not listed in the framework due to the problematic nature of this practice, which is well-documented in the literature of multiple academic disciplines. Additionally, we find current institutions rarely use journal rankings to evaluate librarians’ scholarly publications.

Librarians may notice other outputs and measures that are not listed in the framework but are used by their institutions to evaluate research output. In such cases, individuals may choose to build on the framework as appropriate to their institutional contexts.

Scholcomm-L, resmetig-L, probably other listservs as well – the task force can handle that responsibility.

Updates based on Standards Committee feedback

- The link to more information on page 3 of the framework: we would like for the link to be publicly available – some of the data we collected/summarized may be useful for other purposes beyond the task force’s scope, and help further contextualize the framework.
- Case uses: the case uses have been deleted. They were originally added after feedback from Charleston conference participants. After discussing the comments received from the Standards Committee, the task force decided that it was better to remove them.
- Titles and affiliations of experts consultants: they have been added to this form.

Subject: Librarianship in For-Profit Educational Institutions Interest Group Transition from Interest Group to Discussion Group

Submitted by: Mary Snyder, mary.snyder@strayer.edu, Convener, Librarianship in For-Profit Educational Institutions Interest Group

Date submitted: October 27, 2020

Background
I am the current convener for our IG and I propose shifting the Librarianship in For-Profit Educational Institutions Interest Group (LFPEI) community from an Interest Group to a Discussion Group. This change will alleviate the IG responsibilities we cannot fulfill, due to 1 leader instead of 3. This change will still allow us to communicate and grow our for-profit community and comradery.

Last year, we had a challenge with group leadership. We did not have enough volunteers to fill all three leadership roles for our IG. We only had one volunteer and our past leaders were not able to continue serving out their terms. ACRL was flexible and suggested a discussion group. The past leader and myself opted to stay with the status quo and ACRL agreed to let us have only one volunteer leader for the year. ACRL again gave us leeway when we were unable to submit our portion of the ACRL Plan for Excellence Report in summers 2019 and 2020.

Stakeholders
Yes, stakeholders have been contacted using ALA Connect LFPEI Community and the LFPEI Sympa list.

Fiscal and Staffing Impact
If approved, ACRL staff will update the online Directory of Leadership, Board manual, and membership materials to reflect this transition. ACRL staff will work with ALA IT to update the ALA Connect group, membership group database, and listserv. Interest Groups are allotted a small budget, and ACRL staff will update the FY22 budget accordingly.

Action Recommended
That the ACRL Board of Directors approves that the Librarianship in For-Profit Educational Institutions transition from Interest Group to Discussion Group, effective immediately.
Strategic Goal Area Supported

Please see the ACRL Strategic Plan, and select from the drop-down the goal area that will be affected most by this action.

☐ Value of Academic Libraries
Goal: Academic libraries demonstrate alignment with and impact on institutional outcomes.

☐ Student Learning
Goal: Advance innovative practices and environments that transform student learning.

☐ Research and Scholarly Environment
Goal: Librarians accelerate the transition to more open and equitable systems of scholarship.

☐ New Roles and Changing Landscapes
Goal: Academic and research library workforce effectively navigates change in higher education environments.

☒ Enabling Programs and Services
ACRL programs, services, and publications that target education, advocacy, and member engagement.
Draft FY2022 Budget Assumptions

ACRL develops budget assumptions annually to guide staff in preparing annual project budgets. ACRL’s budget is mission-driven and should provide sufficient revenues to support the strategic initiatives outlined in the ACRL Plan for Excellence, including initiatives related to its Core Commitment to Equity, Diversity, and Inclusion (EDI). This is accomplished through a blend of programs and services, some of which generate net revenues, e.g., ACRL professional development, especially its biennial conference, and others that the association expects to support, e.g., advocacy, member services, etc.

The ACRL Budget & Finance Committee reviewed these draft assumptions on November 5, 2020. The Board will review, suggest revisions as needed, and approve the assumptions below at its 2020 Fall Board Virtual Meeting on November 16, 2020. Based on the approved budget assumptions, ACRL staff will prepare the preliminary FY22 budget for review by the Budget & Finance Committee at their winter meeting (anticipated near or during the 2021 ALA Midwinter Meeting, January 22-26).

General Overview: The economic climate and U.S. higher education

As we begin to prepare the FY22 budget for ACRL, the global economic outlook is largely influenced by the effects of the COVID-19 pandemic. The World Bank states that, “Current projections imply that the COVID-19 global recession will be the fourth (of eleven) deepest in this period and the most severe since the end of World War II.”¹ Global GDP contraction is projected by the International Monetary Fund at -4.9%², the World Bank at -5.2%¹, and the Organization for Economic Co-operation and Development between -6% to -7.6%³. Although the U.S. Economy rebounded in the third quarter of 2020 (at an annual rate, GDP grew by 33.1 percent from July through September)⁴, economist do not expect this quarter’s growth to continue for the fourth quarter. While it is expected that FY22 will be largely influenced by the effects of the 2020 global pandemic, other current events, including the November 2020 US election, racial justice movement, extreme weather events\(^5\), and wealth inequality\(^6\), will also influence the economic climate and outlook. The effects of the pandemic are expected to impact the economy for years\(^7\), and the global outlook is dependent on many unknown factors, including a potential new stimulus plan from Congress, the development and rollout of a vaccine and improved treatment, potential subsequent waves of the SARS-CoV-2 virus, and changing consumer behavior.

Higher education has been impacted by the pandemic, and the full extent is yet to be known. Before the pandemic, state spending on public colleges and universities was already well below the historical levels prior to the Great Recession of 2008-09.\(^8\) Insider Higher Ed reported that, “State funding nationwide is nearly 9 percent below pre-Great Recession levels and 18 percent below where it was before the 2001 tech bust.”\(^9\) Although “most Americans believe state spending for public universities and colleges has increased or at least held steady over the last 10 years,” in fact, “states have collectively scaled back their annual higher education funding by $9 billion during that time, when adjusted for inflation.”\(^10\) Despite public perception, it is estimated that, “the financial impact of the pandemic on students and institutions would total at least $120 billion.”\(^11\) Higher ed is considering and has implemented a number of cost savings measures, including tuition discounts to increase student enrollment and overall revenue, borrowing from endowments, and seeking additional federal and state funding.

The projected federal growth has gone from a projected 2.3% increase for 2020 to an 8.6% decrease in 2021.\(^12\)\(^13\) The Higher Education Price Index (which projects major cost factors for colleges and universities) is forecasting a 2.2% decrease in 2020, which is a decline from the estimated 2.6% increase from a year ago 2019,14 15 It should be noted that, unlike after previous economic downturns, state spending on higher education did not bounce back after the 2008 recession.”16 In the last ten years, state funding has decreased by $9 billion when adjusted for inflation, and “state appropriations per full-time student have fallen from an inflation-adjusted $8,489 in 2007 to $7,642 in 2017.”17 Decreased state funding is a trend, as funding for public two- and four-year colleges remains well below pre-recession levels in almost every state and in the school year ending in 2018, funding was more than $7 billion below its 2008 level, after adjusting for inflation. Without considering inflation, state fiscal support for higher education grew by just 1.6 percent in 2018, according to the most recent Grapevine survey which noted that the level of support is “down sharply from a 4.2 percent increase last year and represents the lowest annual growth in the last five years.”18 “In only six states have higher education budgets returned to or surpassed their pre-recession levels; in 19 states, expenditures per student are at least 20 percent lower than before the recession.”19 To cope with these cuts, institutions have raised tuition and made deep cuts to programs and services, reducing access to college education for some and calling into question the quality of the program remaining.20 Financial challenges face higher education as public investment and tuition revenue are on the decline while labor and facility costs continue to rise21.

In a recent survey of college and university presidents, “55 percent of presidents described their institution as offering ‘predominantly online, with some in-person instruction.’”22 As institutions move from face-to-face to virtual classrooms, some students are expecting lowered tuition rates. Some institutions have responded to this request by reducing tuition between 10% to 61%, delaying tuition hikes, adding incentives, and/or removing activity fees. A handful of colleges are offering a free year of tuition. It is unknown how long the shift to virtual learning will be necessary or if this will be a lasting trend, but according to the Brookings Institution, it is predicted that virtual and hybrid learning may continue as an option after the pandemic ends. Depending on the outcome of the US presidential elections, college tuition could become more affordable to students. Candidate Biden has proposed making public college tuition-free for families earning $125,000 or less "through a partnership, whereby the federal government would use funding to incentivize states to invest in their higher education institutions to eliminate tuition at those schools." Although total enrollment in degree-granting postsecondary institutions increased 27 percent from 2000 to 2018 (from 13.2 million to 16.6 million students), it was projected to increase by only 2 percent between 2018 and 2029 (from 16.6 million to 17.0 million students). This number is in line with high school graduation rate projections, which show the number of high school graduates increasing by 3% between 2014 and 2025. A recent figure from Fitch Ratings, “cited preliminary data indicating enrollment across U.S. colleges and universities fell 3% this fall (2020) versus last year,” which is better than, “a 5 percent to 10 percent decline Fitch had been expecting.” Given the current economy, that increase may accelerate as past trends show that "enrollment increases rapidly during economic downturns. At the same time, state funding decreases and tuition rises at a faster rate"32. Whether enrollments increase or decrease next fall, it is unlikely that higher education will see a substantive increase in its funding, absent a new federal tuition-free program, which typically translates to no more or less funding for academic libraries.

Economic climate and academic libraries

Before the pandemic, ACRL membership numbers were on a slow but steady decline, which is in part due to the closing of institutions that have an impact on both ACRL’s organizational and personal members. Closures are declining, but there are still a significant number of institutions that close each year. In 2019, there were 543 closed postsecondary institutions in the US; in 2018, 711; in 2017, 947; in 2016, 1,111.33 According to the data through September 7, 2020, 129 institutions closed in 2020. The workforce is aging, and the pool of potential academic librarians is in decline as evidenced by the drop in MLIS degrees awarded. Since the decline began in 2010-11, MLS degrees decreased from 7,729 to 4,843 in 2016-17 or by -37%.34 There was a slight 2% increase in MLS degrees granted between 2016-17 and 2017-18.18 Of the placements between 2013 and 2019, the number of placements in academic libraries decreased from 347 to 206, or by 41%.35, 36 The decline during and after the 2008 recession may be stabilizing, as the U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics projects a 5% increase job outlook, which is higher than the 4% job outlook for all occupations.37 While job growth is indicated as fast as average again, it is a decline from the 6% growth listed in 2019 and the 9% in 2018.

Another factor that could influence the size of ACRL’s membership is whether academic libraries are requiring those they hire to hold MLIS degrees. Anecdotally, we are hearing that, especially at large research libraries, subject specialists, and other professional staff (IT, HR, development, marketing, etc.) are being hired to do work that once required an MLIS. A recent study of ARL directors found that while 1/3 of ARL directors did not perceive the MLIS as necessary, 42% did and it is these directors who will hire the next generation of those working in academic and research libraries.38

Fewer financial resources may also have contributed to the consolidation of vendors in the library marketplace.\(^39\),\(^40\) Fewer vendors will mean a smaller pool of companies to provide sponsorships, rent exhibit space, support library and association programs. Because “the current model of large publishers dominating scholarly publishing and inflation grinding down library budgets continues,”\(^41\) tighter library budgets could mean less funding for staff development (e.g., association membership, continuing education) or sponsorship of library association programs.

The impact of the pandemic, along with the pre-pandemic trend of the continued state of lower funding and a consolidation in the marketplace, will affect ACRL’s FY22 budgeted revenue expectations. We expect that library budgets and individual spending will continue to be reduced and thoughtfully considered. While we are still awaiting FY20 financial reports, data from FY19 show that revenues were declining before the pandemic. Gross revenues for consulting were below budget due to fewer than expected clients in the 4\(^{th}\) quarter of FY19, but the 1\(^{st}\) quarter of FY20 was off to a busy start. In FY19, webinar revenues exceeded budget in part due to a successful multi-part series. Revenues from licensed workshops were below budget. In September 2020, the ACRL 2021 Conference planned for April 2021 was canceled as an in-person event and will be held as a virtual conference around the same dates. It is difficult to project at this early stage, but we expect to see reduced revenues and expenses for our flagship event.

The FY22 budget will include traditional revenue streams (e.g., non-serial publications, ad sales, webinars). ACRL staff will continue to adapt to a post-pandemic environment by further exploring virtual offerings, when needed, for in-person events (e.g., ACRL Conference, RBMS Conference, RoadShows). ACRL staff will continue to look for new entrepreneurial ideas and revenue streams, and consider cost savings throughout the year. As part of ALA’s five-year pivot strategy\(^42\), FY22 is planned to be the first net neutral year for the organization. Strategies for ALA to achieve a net neutral by FY22 include two new revenue streams (CE and contributed revenue), the rollout of the LibLearnX event, and testing public markets for internal products.

In recent years, ACRL has been tasked by its Board and Budget & Finance Committee to spend down its net asset balance, and to look for appropriate opportunities to “invest” a portion of this net asset balance in strategic programs and services that serve the membership. Recent examples of such investments include the promotion of Project Outcome, research grants to practitioner-scholar academic librarians to carry out research identified in the 2019 research agenda, and digitization of past issues of C&RL News. Through careful stewardship, the net asset balance, which had grown to $5,002,115 at the beginning of FY16, has through investments in strategic initiatives been reduced to $3,311,824 (FY19 August Final Close). We expect it to be further reduced to $2,388,583 by FY20 close (per FY20 budget) but are pending financial reports that could verify actual.

As ACRL has strategically spent down its net asset balance and it is expected for the FY20 budget to have a greater deficit than planned, we are now looking to build a budget that balances expenses with revenue. During the June 2020 virtual meetings of the Board and Budget & Finance Committee, a list of over $125,000 of cost savings was reviewed, and direction was given to staff to move forward with the budget cuts. Such investment in programs and services requires staffing support, and staff continues to look for ways to streamline procedures and automate processes where possible, freeing up more of their time for strategic initiatives and to accommodate work stoppage during 23 unpaid furlough days in FY21.

Going forward, the ACRL Board and Budget & Finance Committee will take a much harder look at any proposed new expenditures, as ACRL would need increased revenue streams (e.g., more members joining, increasing book sales, or projected growth for conference and professional development registrations) to support potential requests for increased or new expenditures. Our goal is to moderate many operational expenditures to be more in-line with current revenue expectations while aligning the budget to support the Plan for Excellence and the core commitment to equity, diversity, and inclusion through strategic investments from ACRL’s net asset balance and the annual endowment transfer. It is important to note that the net asset balance (beginning reserve level for FY22 is expected to be $1,814,619 per the FY21 budget) is moving closer to the mandated operating reserve amount of $1,060,858. Ensuring that the net asset balance stays within the mandated operating reserve is another motivating factor for the Board and Budget Committee to carefully monitor expenses in FY22.

Because ACRL works to stay above the mandated operating reserve while still investing strategically in member programs and services, it will cease transfers to its long-term investment fund. If the Board and Budget Committee would like to resume these transfers in future years, there is a two-year notification requirement by ALA if ACRL wants to transfer more than $50,000 to its LTI; transfers below $49,999 do not require the two-year advance notification. Per the 2005 ACRL Board recommendation, the ACRL budget includes an LTI interest transfer (Project 3200) up to the maximum allowable amount. In FY19, ACRL transferred $125,000 in appreciation from its LTI to its operating budget to support strategic initiatives. ACRL will plan to complete this transfer again for FY20. The FY22 budget will include an interest transfer of $135,000 from the endowment to the operating budget.
Choice FY22 Budget Assumptions

General Remarks

The changing character of Choice is something that has been liberally remarked upon in previous budget assumption documents, but the topic bears briefly revisiting here as so much of our budgeting is based on our evolution as a publishing unit.

Over the past decade the historical core of Choice’s publishing program—reviews of new academic monographs—has gradually eroded as the use of reviews in the collection-development process succumbed to the twin forces of technological innovation and the tightening of materials budgets. Indeed, the collection-development function itself no longer occupies the central position it once commanded in many academic libraries. As a result, since 2009, combined circulation of Choice magazine and Choice Reviews has declined by 50%, from 3,500 the year of the Great Recession to 1,750 today, a remarkably predictable 6% a year.

The decline in the use of reviews has affected other parts of our business as well. Choice reviews generate two other streams of revenue: in-publication advertising and royalties from the licensing of reviews to publishers, aggregators, and purchasing platforms. These too are under stress. Since fiscal 2013, in-publication revenues—space ads in the magazine and banner ads in the database—have shrunk by 50%, while royalties have declined by a statelier 22%, from $640K in FY13 to about $500K in this year’s budget.

Recognizing these trends, in recent years we have been vigorously working to uncover alternate sources of revenue based around sponsorships of newsletters, podcasts, and webinars and the underwriting of white papers. During the same period that traditional advertising was shrinking by half, these sponsored-content initiatives have been steadily growing, from a scant $70K in FY13 to a budgeted $417K this year. Webinar sponsorships alone have generated gross revenue of over $1MM since the inception of the program in FY13.

The rise in sponsorship revenue is an important indicator of a larger trend at Choice: the development of an audience outside of the collection-development space, an audience eager to consume Choice content in formats and on platforms far removed from reviews. While review-based readership has fallen, we have been amassing a readership of far greater size and diversity around our media-intensive sponsored programs. Consider these engagement figures from the year just finished:

- Choice360 page views: 181,775
- Choice newsletter subscribers: 14,435 (6 monthly newsletters)
- Webinar registrants: 35,702 (32 webinars)
- Webinar attendees: 15,343
- Webinar screenings on the Choice Media Channel (YouTube): 77,009
- The Authority File podcasts: 42,532 downloads and streams
So, as fiscal 2021 gets underway, Choice presents two faces to the outside world: the one, as a publisher of tools supporting the traditional collection-development process; the other, as a producer of a media portfolio engaging an audience roughly five times as large. Herein lies our dilemma. Despite the phenomenal success of our media program (a success dependent on the flow of free content), the former remains the mainstay of our business, bringing in over $2MM, or 84% of budgeted FY21 unit revenues. The sponsored-content/media portion of the business will generate only 20% of that, some $400K.

Enter COVID-19. It is still not clear to us how deeply the pandemic will affect our business, but as dire reports of budget shortfalls in higher education filter down through industry reports and the general media, we cannot but expect that it will further depress revenues. While to date we seen no losses that are at variance with historical performance, those, presumably, are coming soon. Here then, are our general assumptions regarding our three principal revenue streams for FY22: subscriptions, royalties (licensing), and advertising.

Subscriptions

The finances of any subscription business are governed by the rules of accrual accounting, in which revenues are recognized (“earned”) when a good or service is delivered rather than when cash is received from the subscriber. For accounting purposes, our subscription revenues are recognized in one-month increments over the term of a twelve-month subscription. The result is to effectively “buffer” even a sudden downturn in renewals, as revenue continues to be recognized at a constant rate (1/12th) for the remaining subscriptions. Declines in renewal subscriptions will thus not be immediately apparent on the monthly performance reports, which show only earned income.

But of course a sharp downturn in cash does indeed serve as an indicator of things further down the road, and thus the amount of cash received during the initial months of the pandemic has been of value in forming assumptions around the FY22 budget. Since the beginning of the sequestration and the mass exodus of students from American colleges and universities in March of this year, cash receipts for both Choice Reviews and Choice magazine are down 17% from the same period (April to August) a year ago. Ordinarily one would assume this signals a dramatic downturn in subscriptions, but these figures are not so conclusive as they seem, for historically there is a wide variation in cash receipts in any one month. For instance, year-over-year April-to-August cash was down 19% for Choice Reviews in FY18, and Choice magazine suffered a 12% decline in cash during this same period in FY19, yet annual earned income for these products was off by only 1% (!) and 10%, respectively, in those years. So by themselves, these numbers do not portend the apocalypse, only the slow, relentless drip of a declining asset.

Having said that, far and away the majority of our subscriptions come from one subscription agent, EBSCO, which brings us a large number of batched subscriptions in November of each year and hence a large infusion of cash. Typically, November accounts for between 30% and 33% of total annual cash received for Choice Reviews and some 55% to 60% of Choice magazine subscriptions. So it is the November numbers that will provide us with our first real look at subscription revenues over the next year or so. From these we will be able to make a more informed judgement about calendar 2022, as renewal rates are a reliable indicator of future revenue.

Our Reviews on Cards continue to generate high-margin income despite its admittedly anachronistic format. That said, Card subscriptions have not been immune to the historical trend. Circulation was down 12% in FY21, and we expect continued declines of this magnitude in FY22.

For its part, subscription revenue from Resources for College Libraries arrives quarterly as a percentage (30%) of sales made by our partners at ProQuest, and, since we are effectively the “author,” not the publisher, of the work, that revenue is considered earned when we receive it. We have little visibility and even less influence, over RCL sales, but absent any information to the contrary, we are projecting only a modest decline in revenue in FY22.

Third-party Licenses

Our licenses with the major platform providers and aggregators provide us with a fairly reliable stream of income. In recent years ProQuest, the largest of our licensees, has been regularly reducing the amount it is willing to pay for using Choice reviews in Books in Print and Syndetics, and those losses, along with the loss ($108K) of the ProQuest Intota license when that product failed in the marketplace, account for the lion’s share of the decline in royalty revenue. We see no losses on that scale from other sources in the near term.

Nonetheless, it is worth pointing out that these assumptions do not include drastic, unanticipated losses in royalty income that might yet result from the COVID-19 pandemic. While COVID has certainly subjected subscription revenues to additional stresses, it would take cancellations on the part of hundreds of libraries to equal the loss of even one major licensee. For FY21, ProQuest licenses to Choice content have been budgeted at $272,518. Should ProQuest suddenly shift course and allow its licenses to our reviews to expire in response to the pandemic (or for any other reason), the entire amount could become vulnerable within a twenty-four-month period. The probability of this type of sudden, wholesale loss is small and has not been factored in our assumptions for FY22, but it cannot be ruled out entirely. Nor is this risk confined to this one licensee.

Advertising and Sponsorships

Traditional Advertising. We have already noted the precipitous decline we are seeing in traditional advertising, with several publishers openly stating to us that they will no longer produce print advertisements. Advertising in Choice magazine, which in FY13 brought in over $450K (gross), fell to $223K last year and is running at 66% of last year’s performance thus far in FY21, well below budget. This trend, and its much smaller analogue in banner advertising in Choice Reviews, appears irreversible.
One as yet untested source of revenue is the recent introduction of advertising on Choice360.org, our newly relaunched customer-facing website. We are hopeful that the new site, which provides improved visibility of and easy access to the entire range of Choice content, may attract the interest of sponsors wishing to leverage their investment in Choice-created and produced webinars, podcasts, and white papers.

Webinars. Now in its eighth year, the Choice/ACRL webinar program is well established and continues to draw large and enthusiastic audiences, with lifetime-to-date registrations approaching 140,000. Early concerns about the limited life-cycle of our program seem premature at best, in part because the professionalism of our productions and the guidance we provide at every step of the process have made our webinars a trusted source of information for librarians and an attractive platform for sponsors, who increasingly look to us for support in approaching the academic library market. Fueled by COVID-associated cabin fever, FY20 saw registrations double and attendance grow by almost two-and-a-half times over the previous year. That trend appears to be continuing; by mid-October we have already reached budget in sponsor reservations for this fiscal year, and some sponsors are now cold-calling us with requests to book webcasts. So, we are forecasting revenues equal to or better than those of FY20 in both FY21 and FY22.

Podcasts. During this past year the popularity of our principal podcast, The Authority File, again accelerated rapidly, logging 42,532 listener sessions, an increase of 27% over the previous year. Even more impressive, figures for this September are up 61% (6,854 v 4,241 downloads and streams) over a year ago.

Spurred by this level of engagement, in June of this past year we launched a companion series to The Authority File, this one a serial-style podcast, in narrative format, highlighting individual library stories. Release of this new series, Patron Driven, had been planned to coincide with the ALA Annual Conference, attended by considerable on-site fanfare, but the cancellation of the live event and the resulting fanfare-less mid-summer release of its first “season” (sic), dampened initial uptake. First-season listenership of this five-part program has now reached 600, and we are in the early stages of planning a second season, contingent upon finding corporate sponsorship.

Financially, The Authority File has already exceeded its FY21 budget in sponsor reservations, with indications that the only impediment to growth in FY22 may be the limitation of staff time. We are actively exploring outsourcing post-production in order to accommodate more sponsored programming.

White Papers. Finally, our white paper program, more labor- and time-intensive than either webinars or podcasts on a unit basis, is growing more slowly, restrained both by resource issues at Choice and by sponsor participation. The longer sales cycle this project entails, and the scant staff resources available to produce the studies, are serving to limit the number of publications we publish to two a year. For FY22 we will assume two white papers, with gross revenue of $30,000.
Expenses

Expense assumptions have been made without the benefit of financial data for the fiscal year ending 31 August 2020 (see below). In the absence of this data, we have made certain pro forma assumptions. For payroll, we have assumed no layoffs, no reductions in force, and a continued 2% salary adjustment annually, and we have used pre-furlough salaries as the base. These are best-case assumptions that may not survive the budget-making process. Because of our success in reducing expenses over the past five years ($362K in direct spending reductions between FY15 and FY19), payroll now accounts for about 70% of our direct spending. Aside from staffing, then, there are few other areas to cut. If the continued ALA strategy to contain costs is pursued through furloughs or other personnel reductions, this will mean a reduction in revenue.

For all other direct expenses, we have taken FY21B as the base and subjected it to an annual increase of 1.75%, reflecting our current low rate of inflation. This assumption is subject to substantial restatement as the economy recovers. ALA overhead has been calculated using the current rate of 13.25% (per the operating agreement, the division rate on publishing revenue is 50% of full rate applied to education and other non-dues revenue). Obviously, an increase in that rate as the result of ongoing discussions at ALA about revising the operating agreement will further burden Choice.

It remains to say how difficult it has been to create assumptions around financial performance a year from now in the absence of any financial data later than March of this year. The failure of the attempt to outsource the Accounting group, and the lack of auditable financial statements that has resulted, have introduced an unprecedented and unacceptable amount of uncertainty into the entire budgeting process.

With these points in mind, Choice pro forma assumptions regarding the FY22 budget can be found on page 23.

ACRL General Assumptions

Basic Budget Assumptions

1. All ALA and ACRL fiscal policies will be followed in the development of the budget.
2. The mandated reserve (as set by the ACRL Board, following ALA policy) for ACRL and CHOICE will be maintained.
3. Professional development offerings must be operated on a full cost-recovery basis.
4. Non-serial publications must be operated on a full cost-recovery basis.
5. Salaries and benefits for division staff will be equal to or less than 45% of the total operating budget using a 2-year average to match the swings in the operating budget.

6. Total administrative costs for the Division will be equal to or less than 60% of the total operating budget using a 2-year average to match the swings due to the ACRL Conference.

7. New projects that don’t generate revenue will be charged to the membership services category.

8. Personnel allocations for salaries, benefits, and other related costs and office services, such as postage, copying, telephone, etc., will continue to be charged to the various programs as a percentage of the time spent on the programs.

Modified accrual accounting
ALA uses accrual accounting, a method which recognizes revenues and expenses at the time the event is held, or product delivered. This method ensures that revenues are on hand for refunds should said event or product not be delivered. However, ACRL has requested that ALA continue to “recognize” the expenses leading up to the conference/event as they occur so that staff can monitor expenses and adjust as needed. Should ALA be able to develop easily obtained reports detailing expenses, ACRL would consider switching to a full accrual system. At this time, however, we are “paying as we go” and earning the revenues only after we deliver the product, e.g., the publication, the conference, etc.

Given that FY22 is a non-conference year, ACRL would expect to generate a negative year-end net. Looking ahead to FY23, due to past investment of ACRL’s net asset balance in strategic initiatives, absent significant new revenue streams, the association will need to reduce expenditures substantially, which may result in disruption to member services. The Budget & Finance Committee and staff will closely monitor the deficit budget to ensure that ACRL’s net asset balance remains above the mandated operating reserve (i.e., one-quarter of the average of the last four years of expenses).

Revenues

+ Primary sources of revenue will be education (e-learning, institutes, pre-conferences), publications (including advertising and sponsorships), dues and donations.

+ At least $25,000 will be budgeted for donations to ACRL Friends (pending further discussion by the Board as to the type of campaign to launch for FY23).

+ The Colleagues program has been a strong source of revenue for ACRL programs and special activities in past years. Although fundraising has gotten more difficult, dedicated member leaders continue to exceed expectations in the fundraising for the ACRL Conference. Other programs have been slightly more challenged, e.g., awards, as sponsors continue to look for more engagement with customers in return for their sponsorship. Staff will budget conservatively for donations related to specific projects. (Projects 3206, 3800, 3833, and 3835).

+ An estimated $135,000 in income from the ACRL long-term investments will be recognized in the draft operations budget (final amount will be derived in consultation with ALA Finance staff to ensure that will be the eligible expected earnings) (Project 3200).
Expenses:

- Travel and communication costs will continue to increase and will be carefully monitored (all projects). Travel and administrative expenses were reduced based on prior year actuals.
- All current staff positions will be included in the budget. As of September 2020, ALA policy does not allow for the majority of vacant positions (possible exceptions: grant-funded, executive directors) to be filled, and if applicable, any vacancies will be a cost savings. ALA/ACRL expects that the executive director vacancy will be filled by FY22, and the ED salary will be included in the FY22 budget. Some funds will be budgeted for interns and temporary help.

Assumptions by Strategic Goal

Goals are listed in the order in which they appear in the ACRL Plan for Excellence.

Value of Academic Libraries

Goal: Academic libraries demonstrate alignment with and impact on institutional outcomes

Objectives

1. Cultivate research opportunities that communicate the impact of academic and research libraries in the higher education environment.
2. Promote the impact and value of academic and research libraries to the higher education community.
3. Expand professional development opportunities for assessment and advocacy of the contributions towards impact of academic libraries.
4. Support libraries in articulating their role in advancing issues of equity, access, diversity, and inclusion in higher education.

Expenses

- $2,500 will be budgeted for potential VAL activities in consultation with the chair of the VAL committee. (Project 3703)

Student Learning

Goal: Advance equitable and inclusive pedagogical practices and environments for libraries to support student learning.

Objectives

1. Empower libraries to build sustainable, equitable, inclusive, and responsive information literacy programs.
2. Collaborate with internal and external partners to expand understanding of the impact of information literacy on student learning.

Expenses

- $2,500 will be budgeted for potential SLILC activities in consultation with the chair of the SLILC committee (Project 3711).
- $5,000 will be budgeted for maintenance and development of the Information Literacy Sandbox (Project 3711).
- One Immersion Program will be offered in FY22 if pandemic conditions improve: the redesigned Immersion curriculum which integrates content from the separate tracks into one offering. (Projects 3830). The program will break even or net a small profit. We are also planning on offering at least one regional Immersion program at a location to be determined (Project 3834). This change addresses the trend toward making more regional programming available. All Immersion programs will be offered on a cost-recovery basis. Because of its proven-track record of drawing a consistent number of participants, registration revenues will be budgeted at 95%. (Project 3830)
- Funds will be budgeted for one Immersion facilitator observer for the non-regional Immersion Programs (Projects 3830).

Research and Scholarly Environment
Goal: The academic and research library workforce accelerates the transition to more open and equitable systems of scholarship.

Objectives
1. Increase the ways ACRL is an advocate and model for more representative and inclusive ways of knowing.
2. Enhance members’ capacity to address issues related to scholarly communication, including but not limited to data management, library publishing, open access, and digital scholarship, and power and privilege in knowledge creation systems.
3. Increase ACRL’s efforts to influence and advocate for more open and equitable dissemination policies and practices.

Expenses
- $2,500 will be budgeted for scholarly communication activities in consultation with the chair of the Research and Scholarly Environment Committee. (Project 3702)
- $30,000 will be budgeted for research grants to practitioner-scholar academic librarians to carry out research on key questions identified by the Spring 2019 action-oriented research agenda. These will be awarded through a competitive selection process (6-10 grants of $3,000 - $5,000 each); (Project 3702) Could consider reducing but this supports ACRL’s EDI initiatives.
- An additional $29,257 is budgeted to pay the following:
  o $15,010 for Library Copyright Alliance ($15,010 shown in Govt. Relations Project 3704)
  o $6,750 for SPARC dues;
  o $5,000 for Open Access Working Group;
  o $497 for COUNTER dues;
  o $2,000 for OpenCon2021, 1 sponsored scholarship
New Roles and Changing Landscapes
Goal: The academic and research library workforce effectively fosters change in academic libraries and higher education environments.

Objectives:
1. Deepen ACRL’s advocacy and support for the full range of the academic library workforce.
2. Equip the academic library workforce to effectively lead, manage, and embrace change, advocate for their communities, and serve as a catalyst for transformational change in higher education.
3. Increase diversity, cultivate equity, and nurture inclusion in the academic library workforce.

Expenses
- $2,500 will be budgeted as a placeholder for new initiatives to support this goal. (Project 3403)

Equity, Diversity and Inclusion

Revenues
+ $16,500 in revenues from the ACRL Diversity Alliance will be budgeted. 48 institutions @ $500. Number of institutions based on 75% of 2020 membership (Project 3402).

Expenses
- $1,500 in ongoing costs to support for the ACRL Diversity Alliance (Project 3402).
- $14,000 will be budgeted to support two ALA Spectrum Scholars. The B&F Committee and the Board recommended to increase support from one to two Spectrum Scholars. The Board approved at its 2018 Fall Meeting. (Project 3838).

Enabling programs and services: Member Engagement

The following budget assumptions are presented by enabling program and service area so that we continue to think of resource allocation aligned with the strategic plan.

Membership Services

Revenues
+ These are preliminary estimates based on partial FY20 data, and we are still waiting for more up-to-date info from ALA Membership, as well as tactics to grow membership. Membership revenues will be budgeted by first looking at FY20 February actual, the most current membership data available, then adjusted down to reflect decreases in FY20, FY21 and adjusted for an expected decline in non-conference years. First, ALA has projected a 9% membership decline for FY20. Second, initial FY21 revenue (projected based on the August 2019 membership of 9,313, a number which excludes the 206 non-dues paying members in FY19) was adjusted to reflect a mandated ALA-wide 30% reduction in dues revenue in FY21 (which would reduce the number of members by 29%). Third, as FY22 will be a non-conference year for ACRL, historically membership decreases by 4.10%. Therefore, FY22 membership will be budgeted at a total membership of 6,304 paying members. This reflects all three declines enumerated above: the projected 9% membership decrease in FY20, projected membership decreases of 29% in FY21, and 4.10% decrease as a non-conference year. ACRL may increase dues slightly in FY22 (if the Board implements an increase based on a possible change to the HEPI index). The initial personal membership rate for FY22 will be based on FY21 HEPI and then updated to reflect the final FY21 HEPI. Staff will continue to adjust this recommendation based on the monthly membership reports and quarterly HEPI forecasts.

Expenses

- Membership benefits and support for member services will be strategically reviewed by the Board and Budget and Finance Committee in light of decreasing revenues and absent net asset balance spend down. (Project 3200)
- ACRL will budget $3,000 to sponsor three ALA Emerging Leaders. (Project 3200).
- ACRL will budget $4,500 (updated number in assumptions to match $4,500 at MW19) to print C&RL News wraps welcoming new, reinstated, and renewing members and encouraging lapsing members to renew. (Project 3200)
- Leadership Council catering for Annual Conference split between 3200, 3201, 3250, 3275. Budget based on average of previous years: $5,000/2
- Reduced to $15,000 from $25,000 for as yet unidentified strategic initiatives will be budgeted. (Project 3200-5350)

Board and Executive Committee

Expenses

- Funds will be budgeted to support a suite for the ACRL President at Annual Conference—typically about $340/night/5 nights. As ALA sunsets MW and business meetings do not take place in conjunction with the new LibLearnX event, a suite will not be budgeted. (Project 3201)
- Funds estimated at $63,022 will be budgeted for a FY22 Board Strategic Planning and Orientation Session. Funds will be budgeted to include senior staff participation in the Strategic Planning Session as well as chairs/vice-chairs of the four goal-area committees and the EDI Committee. (Project 3201)
- Leadership Council catering for Annual Conference split between 3200, 3201, 3250, 3275. Budget based on average of previous years: $5,000/4 (Project 3201)

Advisory services and consulting

Revenues

+ Consulting will continue to recover costs and yield a modest net of $7,300. (Project 3203)
Discussion Groups

Expenses
- No funds beyond staff support will be budgeted as discussion groups do not receive a base funding allocation.

Awards

Expenses
- Donations to support awards will be recognized and staff time, administrative fees, and direct expenses will be budgeted to support the awards program, which consists of 21 awards. (Project 3206)
- Administrative fees will be allocated to 4429 instead of 4490, saving approximately $600 in overhead.

Chapters

Expenses
- Per member allocations to ACRL Chapters will be funded at $1.00 per ACRL member residing in the state or region but budgeted based on historic usage of these funds which is below the maximum funding allowed. As ACRL looks to reduce expenses this area of expense reimbursement merits examination. Less than half of the chapters avail themselves of this funding. (Project 3207)
- Funds will be budgeted to support the ACRL Chapter Speakers Bureau program, which funds ten visits to ACRL chapters by ACRL officers. (Project 3207)
- Because no chapter has ever requested funds under this program since its inception, no funds will be allocated in the FY22 budget to implement the Board’s policy to give $10 to chapters for each new member of ACRL in the chapter’s geographic region who joined in the previous fiscal year after chapters document membership campaign activities focused on recruiting to ACRL national. If a chapter did undertake this activity, ACRL could fund this from the net asset balance.

Committees

Expenses
- Committees are allowed up to $150 each. Based on historical requests, $1,200 will be budgeted.
- Leadership Council catering for Annual Conference split between 3200, 3201, 3250, 3275. Budget based on average of previous years: $5,000/4Sections and Interest Groups
Sections

Expenses
- Expenses for sections will be budgeted using the section funding formula in place, a base allocation of $1,000.00 with an additional $0.75 per section member over 400 (as of August 31).
- Interest Groups are allowed up to $150 each. Based on historical requests, $1,500 will be budgeted.
- Leadership Council catering for Annual Conference split between 3200, 3201, 3250, 3275. Budget based on average of previous years: $5,000/4

Liaisons to Higher Education Organizations

Expenses
- See Advocacy section.

Special Events

Expenses
- In recent years, the number of ACRL section and interest group special events at conferences has averaged 16 per year. With the reorganized Midwinter Meeting starting in 2021, the average number of events per year may drop to 12 as less units meet onsite. (Project 3833)

Government Relations (Project 3704)

Expenses
- $15,010 for Library Copyright Alliance ($15,010 shown in Scholarly Communication Project 3702)
- $4,000 will be budgeted to cover the costs of the officers (or other leaders) attending ALA’s Legislative Day in Washington, D.C. (Project 3704).
- $2,000 for general travel to support legislative and policy advocacy (Project 3704).

Scholarships

Expenses
- Funds for scholarships shall be budgeted as follows, although these amounts may be reduced as the budget gets assembled (Project 3838):
  - 2022 RBMS Conference scholarships @ $18,000 reduced to $13,000
  - Immersion Programs @ $12,000; reduced to $10,000 if pandemic conditions improve and a F2F program is held in FY22
  - E-learning scholarships @ $1,000: eliminated
  - Support for 2 ALA Spectrum Scholars @ $14,000
• Miscellaneous @ $3,000; eliminated

Annual Conference Programs

Expenses

- Financial support for ACRL’s ALA Annual Conference programs will be a total of $7,150. (Project 3835)
- The President’s Program budget will be $6,500. (Project 3835)
- Funds of $200 will be budgeted for a front and back flyer that includes the award winners for the ACRL President’s Program. (Project 3835)

Enabling programs and services: Publications

Non-periodical publications

Revenues

+ In FY22, non-periodical publications will be able to recover costs and net a small-medium excess revenue based on the current list of books in progress and expanding backlist. (Project 3400)
+ ACRL should see continued robust sales and royalties from EBSCO and ProQuest in FY22. (Project 3400)

Expenses

- Expenses will be budgeted higher than in previous years to account for increased costs of production, royalty payments, costs of sales, etc. as the new title count and backlist continues to grow. (Project 3400)

Library Statistics (Project 3202)

Revenues

+ In FY22 the redesigned ACRL data product (including the Academic Library Facilities survey data and the ACRL Academic Library Trends and Statistics survey data) will launch. Net revenue is projected to be $32,725 and will be budgeted in 3202.

Expenses

- We will budget $21,000 in depreciation costs and $21,500 as repayment to PLA to cover ACRL’s share of the rebuild cost in FY21. (Project 3202)

Standards and guidelines (Project 3204)

Revenues

+ Sales of print standards fell off to zero during the pandemic. Anticipate very negligible sales to continue in FY22 as well unless there is a bigger than anticipated economic rebound and/or RoadShows move back to an in-person model (RoadShows IUT costs of booklets for programs back to this line).

Expenses
- There should be no, or very limited, printing expenses in FY22 due to current inventory and lack of sales in FY20 and most likely FY21.

C&RL (Project 3300)

Revenues
+ For FY22, we are assuming that ad revenues will drop by approximately 20% to $9,000 due to the continued impact of the COVID-19 pandemic/recovery. (Project 3300)

Expenses
- Online hosting and labor expenses should remain steady with FY20 actual/FY21 budget. (Project 3300)

C&RL News (Project 3302)

Overview
- The below budget assumptions are based on continuing to publish C&RL News in print at 11 issues per year. Staff are examining other possible models for the magazine due to the economic downturn.

Revenues
+ Subscriptions: Subscriptions dropped approximately 15% between FY19 and FY20. We will budget a 20% drop from FY20 actual for FY22 due to an anticipated smaller number of renewals due to the pandemic. Small annual subscription price increases have been implemented which will partially offset smaller number of subscribers.
+ Print product ads: We anticipate an approximately 25% decline in print advertising over FY20 actual due to the ongoing impact of the pandemic and at this time will budget $50,000 for this line.
+ Online product ads: Revenue from banner ads on the C&RL News website and table of contents alert sponsorships should hold reasonably steady at between $12,000 and $15,000.
+ Online ads: Online advertising on which we pay overhead, including eblasts and newsletter sponsorships, should remain steady at approximately $80,000.
+ Classified ad revenues will be budgeted with a moderate increase over FY21, assuming that job openings consistently recover through FY20. Job ad sales grew steadily from 2010 through 2017, then declined slightly in 2018 and 2019 as the job market plateaued. In 2020, ads suffered a massive drop as the COVID pandemic hit the U.S., down 70% to 80% for much of the year until showing signs of recovery as autumn approached. ALA JobLIST maintains high awareness in the LIS niche and is a uniquely powerful recruitment tool for the profession. But an uncertain economic environment and the possibility of new ALA policies restricting the ads JobLIST is allowed to publish—restrictions JobLIST’s for-profit competitors don’t face—potentially threaten its future performance. Online job ad revenues and expenses are split with American Libraries 50/50 through operation of the ALA JobLIST online career center. (Project 3302)

Expenses
- A small amount of funds will be budgeted to support marketing initiatives for the online career center, ALA JobLIST. (Project 3302)
- $14,000 will be budgeted to contribute to HRDR for operating costs of the ALA JobLIST Placement Center at ALA MW and AC. (Project 3302)
- $19,350 will be budgeted for ALA JobLIST’s ongoing operating expenses, a monthly fee to the platform provider (assumes a small increase in the fee for the contract renewal in December 2021). (Project 3302)
- C&RL News page counts will remain at FY20 levels, pending revenues and expenses. (Project 3302)
- Slight increases in printing and postage are anticipated. (Project 3302)
- Online hosting expenses are anticipated to remain steady at FY20 actual/ FY21 budget levels. (Project 3302)

RBM (Project 3303)

Revenues
- Subscriptions dropped approximately 10% between FY19 and FY20. At this time, we will budget a similar drop for FY22 unless we see a material change in FY20 subscriptions year to date. Small annual subscription price increases have been implemented which will partially offset smaller number of subscribers.

- Print and online advertising revenue should be on par with FY20 actual/ FY21 budget.

Expenses
- Online hosting expenses will remain at FY20 actual/ FY21 budget levels following the transition to Open Journal Systems in FY17. (Project 3303)
- Slight increases in printing and postage are anticipated. (Project 3303)
- Page counts should remain at FY20 levels. (Project 3303)

CHOICE

Keeping in mind the points made in the overview section, here are the following pro forma assumptions regarding the FY22 budget. (All percentages are to FY21 budget unless otherwise noted):
CHOICE Revenue

+ Choice Reviews subscription revenue will fall by 2%.
+ Choice magazine subscription revenue will fall by 7%; Reviews on Cards, by 10%
+ Subscriptions to Resources for College Libraries will be in line with FY21B performance, at around $135,000. RCL licensing will remain at $20K for the use of RCL content in ProQuest’s eBook Central.
+ Net (to Choice) revenue for ccAdvisor will be budgeted at around $39K for combined subscriptions and advertising.
+ Advertising net revenues:
  - We are assuming continued weakness in Choice magazine advertising, yielding a 15% drop to approximately $165,000 in gross revenue. Banner ads in Choice Reviews will drop by 5%.
  - Content marketing:
    - Newsletters and eblasts: 2% growth
    - White papers: flat to FY21B
    - Podcasts: 5% growth
  - Gross webinar revenue will be budgeted conservatively at around $190,000, gross. Assuming the current financial split with ACRL (85/15) for webinars, this delivers around $160K to Choice before sales commissions. Subject to restatement as the year progresses.
+ Royalties from licensing of Choice Reviews will remain at or slightly below current levels, to perhaps $490K.

CHOICE Expenses

− Choice will budget salary, benefits, and overhead according to the directives of ALA Finance.
− All other direct expenses, with the exception of amortization of capitalized expenses, will remain at FY21B levels, adjusted for inflation.

CHOICE Bottom Line

- Revenues will be down approximately 3%.
- Assuming no furloughs, expenses will rise by approximately 8% over FY21, which saw a 9% decline in payroll owing to 23 days of furlough
- For FY22, net revenue may be as high as (-$260K), requiring a further draw-down from the Choice reserve fund, currently at about $2.4MM.

Enabling programs and services: Education
ACRL 2023 Conference (Project 3801)

Revenues
+ All revenues pertaining to ACRL 2021 will be recognized in April 2021 after the conference is held.

Expenses
- FY22 is a non-conference year for ACRL, which typically means that it is a “spend down” year as we expend funds to prepare for the ACRL 2023 conference without revenues to offset these expenses. Staff salaries and benefits as well as certain deposit and other planning expenses will be budgeted.

Preconferences and workshops

Revenues
+ Revenues generated from registration fees will cover the costs for one Annual preconference, as the event is budgeted to at least break even. We will budget attendance conservatively to minimize the possibility of having to cancel due to low registration numbers. (Project 3811).
+ The RBMS 63rd Annual Conference will be held in FY22. Revenues and expenses for this program will be set to break even. (Project 3800)

Expenses
- Sections sponsoring conferences (e.g., RBMS) in FY22 may participate in the program to share net revenue with ACRL, which is spent from the fund balance in FY23. (Project 3275 and 3838)

Online learning (Project 3340)

Revenues
+ E-learning webcasts and courses will be developed and offered in FY22. We project the number of multi-week course offerings to stay the same or decrease slightly from FY21 levels and expect webcast offerings to stay the same from FY21 levels. We anticipate total revenues will be a little down or even with FY21 actuals. (Project 3340)
+ ACRL and CHOICE will split revenues and expenses (15/85%) for the ACRL/CHOICE sponsored webinars and will budget approximately 30 of them in FY21.
+ ACRL will continue to offer group registration rates for e-Learning webcasts, as well as the “frequent learner program,” and special pricing for webcast series. (Project 3340)

Expenses
- ACRL will continue to provide two complimentary e-Learning webcasts to ACRL chapters per fiscal year.
Licensed workshops (Project 3341)

Revenues

+ ACRL will continue to license full-day workshops to institutions, chapters, and consortia upon request, as allowed and deemed safe based on the pandemic outlook. Seven available workshops will cover these topics: the Standards for Libraries in Higher Education, Scholarly Communication, Assessment, Open Educational Resources and Affordability, Research Data Management, the Framework for Information Literacy for Higher Education, and the Scholarship of Teaching and Learning. These programs will be offered on a cost-recovery basis and should generate a modest net. (Project 3341)

+ We project the number of in-person workshops delivered to begin increasing from FY21 levels with the anticipation that large group gatherings may become safer. (Project 3341)

+ ACRL will also offer new virtual RoadShow offerings based on the current workshop topics, developed in FY21. We project this to be a popular option for institutions and organizations unable to host an in-person workshop and to generate a modest net. (Project 3341)

+ $10,000 in partial revenue for subsidized RoadShow (Tent. Projects 3702, 3703, 3711).

Expenses

- ACRL will continue to cover travel costs for new presenters to shadow workshops. With the expectation that ACRL will develop at least one new workshop and hire new presenters in FY22, ACRL will budget for 3 new presenters to shadow one workshop each in FY22.

- $20,000 each year to support curriculum development of new workshops and curriculum refreshes of existing workshops.

- Bulk of expenses paid for subsidized RoadShows to HBCU, tribal colleges, and other minority-serving institutions. Continue offering ACRL licensed workshops with up to five subsidized versions on a partial cost-recovery model. Delivery to five locations means an estimated direct cost of $16,750 total: $9,250 travel = (2 presenters x 5 workshop locations) * ($450 flight + $300 hotel ($200 * 1.5 nights) + $100 2 days per diem + $75 ground transportation) and $7,500 honorarium ($750 x 2 presenters x 5 locations). (Tent. Projects 3702, 3703, 3711)

Enabling programs and services: Advocacy

Strengthening partnerships with other organizations (Project 3501)

Expenses

- $5,000 will be budgeted to support the work of ACRL’s External Liaisons Committee (formerly Liaison Coordinating Committee) through its grants working group. (Project 3501).
− ACRL will continue organizational support Project COUNTER, CHEMA, EDUCAUSE (dropped EDUCAUSE Dues from draft budget saving $2,000), FTRF, American Council of Learned Societies, National Humanities Alliance, and CNI. (Project 3501)
− Modest funding to support additional visits (as opportunities arise) to higher education organization conferences and meetings and those of information–related organizations will be included in the budget. (Project 3501)

Communication on major issues and trends in libraries and Higher Education

Expenses
− Continue membership in Library Copyright Alliance at direct cost of $30,020 plus staff time. (Projects 3702 and 3704)
− Funds will be budgeted to support ACRL’s advocacy efforts to influence legislative and public policy. (Projects 3702 and 3704)
− The full Board will participate in a virtual spring meeting but $4,000 will be budgeted to cover the costs of the officers (or other leaders) attending ALA’s Legislative Day in Washington, D.C. (Project 3704)

Project Outcome (Project 3712)

Revenue
+ Project Outcome offers fee-based group accounts for consortia that may bring in revenue. Fees range from $600 to $5000 per group, depending on the number of institutions. There are likely to be fewer than 2 groups added in a year.
+ Revenue from training workshops will be budgeted at $1750.
+ Revenue for new options (e.g. sponsorships, external partnerships, toolkit "resale")

Expenses
− $60,550 will be budgeted for monthly web maintenance costs for the ACRL Project Outcome toolkit. This includes $250/month for Amazon Web Services, $50 for Civilized Discourse Construction Kit, and $225/month for Digital Divide Data Ventures. Community Attributes is paid monthly for maintenance and ad hoc troubleshooting (estimated at $3000/month).
− ACRL staff time of at least 15 hours/week to: provide customer service and technical support for Project Outcome users, act as staff liaison to the Project Outcome for Academic Libraries Editorial Board, and organize new online learning opportunities.

Operations
Operational activities relevant to the quality of ACRL’s strategic and enabling programs and services are reported below.
Staff and office

Expenses—ACRL
- ACRL’s staff budget will include full staffing at FY20 level.
- $5,000 will be budgeted for contract services as needed. (Project 0000)
- Staffing costs for existing staff will be budgeted as directed by ALA Finance. (Project 0000)
- A small amount of money will be budgeted for replacement printers as needed. (Project 0000)
- Costs to provide professional development opportunities for staff will be budgeted. Budgeted funds for professional development and membership, business meetings, and general operational costs reduced.

Expenses—CHOICE
- See Choice expenses.

ALA Relationship

Long-term investment
- ACRL’s general overhead payment to ALA will be budgeted at FY21 levels as policy requires, currently estimated at about $811,598 (FY19 final actual).

Expenses—CHOICE
- CHOICE’s general overhead payment to ALA will be budgeted at approximately $334,014 in FY21, based on FY19 actual (final close).

Subject: ACRL Statement on Importance of College Library Leadership Positions

Submitted by: Mary Mallery, Chair, College Libraries Section (CLS)

Date submitted: October 22, 2020

Background

As academic libraries and their institutions began to reopen over the summer of 2020 in the wake of the first wave of COVID19 lockdowns, it became apparent that the new normal would include major budget and staffing cuts. While collections were the first to come to mind as suffering from these cuts, in fact library staff were furloughed and cut in academic institutions all over the country. Lisa Peet of Library Journal documented this worrisome trend best in her July 11, 2020 article on "Academic Library Workers See Furloughs, Reduced Hours as Schools Anticipate Budget Cuts" where she documented the labor negotiations and library faculty and staff cuts at University of Oregon and smaller colleges on the East Coast, noting that these cuts were, “hitting those who need the paycheck hardest.”

At the same time in July, the CLS listserv, which is one of the major communication media for the 2100+ ACRL College Libraries Section members, erupted with emails from librarians at institutions who were reporting that in addition to the staff layoffs, many experienced the distressing circumstance where the library director was retiring and not being replaced.

In response to this growing crisis, the ACRL College Libraries Section (CLS) Executive Committee commissioned a collaboration this summer of two past CLS Chairs, Alexia Hudson-Ward and Dena Hutto, and myself to draft a statement (Doc 7.1) in response to the great need of the community as so many academic library directors are retiring and not replaced by their administration and many staff are suffering from furloughs and job eliminations to the great detriment of the ability to provide library services and stewardship of resources to the academic community. The final statement was reviewed by the CLS Executive Committee, which approved the Statement at its October 7th meeting. To further the reach of our advocacy, the CLS Executive Committee asked the CLS Chair and the CLS ACRL Board Representative to bring the Statement to the ACRL Board of Directors. CLS worked with its board and staff liaison, the ACRL Interim Executive Director to incorporate their feedback. Therefore, the College Libraries Section Executive Committee requests that the ACRL Board of Directors approve the attached Statement on the Importance of Academic Library Leadership Positions (Doc 7.1).
Stakeholders

The CLS Exec Committee members consulted with the CJCLS Exec Committee, and they responded on October 28, 2020 that they support the request for approval of this statement by the ACRL Board. The ULS Exec Committee had not met in time for the Board submission deadline but noted that they are in consultation about supporting the statement’s adoption by the ACRL Board. In fact, all ACRL members are stakeholders in supporting this statement since it may be that the smaller libraries are hit first by these leadership and staffing cancellations, but the budget cuts are only beginning as COVID19 continues to shut down colleges and libraries and the second wave of its spread has begun this Fall to wreak havoc on receivables and tax revenues worldwide.

Fiscal and Staffing Impact
If approved, ACRL staff will add the statement to its website and will promote through marketing channels.

Action Recommended
That the ACRL Board of Directors approves the ACRL Statement on the Importance of College Library Leadership Positions.

Strategic Goal Area Supported

Please see the ACRL Strategic Plan, and select from the drop-down the goal area that will be affected most by this action.

X Value of Academic Libraries
Goal: Academic libraries demonstrate alignment with and impact on institutional outcomes.

□ Student Learning
Goal: Advance innovative practices and environments that transform student learning.

□ Research and Scholarly Environment
Goal: Librarians accelerate the transition to more open and equitable systems of scholarship.

X□ New Roles and Changing Landscapes
Goal: Academic and research library workforce effectively navigates change in higher education environments.

X□ Enabling Programs and Services
ACRL programs, services, and publications that target education, advocacy, and member engagement.

Statement on Importance of College Library Leadership Positions

ACRL is alarmed by reports of colleges eliminating directorships and staff positions within our institutions, particularly smaller, 4 year baccalaureate-granting colleges’ libraries. We recognize that the COVID-19 pandemic has reshaped institutional financial models; however, we are concerned that in the rush to make cuts from our institutions’ budgets, valuable library services are being sacrificed. Libraries should not be expected to absorb the brunt of cuts as a means of quick-fix cost containment strategies by our institutions.

Current evidence such as usage statistics prove that virtual library services and access to e-resources dramatically increased since the onset of the coronavirus pandemic in March 2020. Many of our member institutions report double and triple digit percentage increases per month in e-book and database usage since the beginning of the COVID-19 crisis. College libraries and archives are also providing services above and beyond library normal operations in support of millions of college students educationally displaced due to COVID-19. These services include but are not limited to web conferencing training and psycho-social support through online enrichment programming as means of fostering a sense of community during this time of tremendous stress and tragedy.

ACRL affirms the importance of experienced, knowledgeable library leaders who make possible the delivery of these critical library services and who are able to ensure the following values that are critical to higher education and the undergraduate experience:

- Cost-effective access to information resources critical to colleges’ educational mission.
- Knowledgeable professional staff who are able to deliver effective instruction, whether in person, online, or in synchronous or asynchronous modes, to meet the college’s information literacy standards and enable student learning and achievement in the curriculum and through independent research.
- Organizations that meet higher education accreditation standards regarding access to information and information literacy standards.
- Co-curricular engagement activities to meet accreditation standards.

We urge institutions to affirm the importance of library leadership and staff positions in college libraries, and to urge smaller colleges and universities to suspend the practice of summarily eliminating these vital faculty and staff without undergoing institutional review processes.

Subject: Discussion of Potential Changes to C&RL News Printing

Submitted by: David Free, C&RL News Editor-in-Chief

Date submitted: October 30, 2020

Background

Since 1966, College & Research Libraries News has served as the official publication of record of ACRL as well as providing articles on the latest trends and practices affecting academic and research libraries. C&RL News was published as a supplement to College & Research Libraries journal for several years until it became a stand-alone publication in 1975.

C&RL News is currently published in print and online 11 times a year. The magazine is distributed in print as a benefit to ACRL members, sent in print to non-member paid subscribers, and is freely available online as a part of ACRL’s commitment to open access publishing. The magazine is supported financially through a combination of print and online product advertising, subscription revenue, sponsorships of table of contents alerts, sponsorships of the ACRL Update and Keeping Up With... newsletters, and ACRL’s share of recruitment advertising revenue from ALA JobLIST, a joint project between the News and American Libraries.

Over the past few years, C&RL News has seen a decline in both the number of non-member print subscribers and print advertising. Due to the ongoing COVID-19 pandemic, recruitment advertising revenue through ALA JobLIST has declined exponentially as well. Assumptions generated as part of the initial FY22 ACRL budgeting process (see Doc 6.0) do not bode well for those revenue to streams to rebound to pre-pandemic levels. In light of the current financial situation, an examination of cost saving measures, including the possible changes to the frequency of the print version of C&RL News, is warranted to ensure the continued fiscal health of the magazine.

Examining the print model of ACRL’s serials is not unprecedented. In April 2011, a working group consisting of representation from the Budget and Finance Committee, C&RL Editorial Board, Publications Coordinating Committee, Scholarly Communication Committee, and Membership Coordinating Committee explored the question of transitioning C&RL journal to an online-only publication. The journal was provided as a member benefit in print at the time, along with having just transitioned to an open access online publishing model. The working group collected member feedback and examined the financial implications of changes to the journal’s publication model. In June 2012, the working group recommended that C&RL move to an online-only publishing model at the beginning of 2014 and the Board approved that recommendation.

In the current pandemic-driven financial environment, an expedited review and decision-making process on the status of C&RL News in print may be in the best interest of the association. To this end, the C&RL News Editor-in-Chief recommends quickly gathering feedback from representatives of the C&RL News Editorial Board, Publications Coordinating Committee, and Membership Committee, along with evaluating association best practices around membership publications, to make a recommendation to the Budget and Finance Committee and Board of Directors on the future direction of C&RL News in print at their January 2021 meetings. The collected input and environmental scan will inform any recommendations from a member benefit/touchpoint/best practices standpoint in addition to focusing on fiscal responsibility and stewardship of ALA/ACRL funds during this time of ongoing financial uncertainty in FY22 and beyond.

While this represents a tight turnaround, time is of the essence in making a recommendation for potential changes to commence with the January 2022 issue of the magazine. The January 2022 timeframe represents the earliest any potential changes could be made with the magazine’s calendar subscription year and allowing sufficient notification of any changes to association membership.

Questions for Discussion

1. Should the C&RL News Editor-in-Chief and Editorial Board continue the process of gathering feedback on possible changes to the printing of C&RL News with the goal of bringing a recommendation for action to the Budget and Finance Committee and Board of Directors at their January 2021 meetings?
2. In addition to the fiscal lens and value of this print publication as a member benefit, are there any other factors the Board would suggest exploring as part of the process?

Board of Directors Discussion Form

Subject: Discuss Potential Review of the ACRL Framework for Information Literacy for Higher Education

Submitted by: Jennifer Steele, ACRL Standards Committee Chair, and Caitlin Plovnick, ACRL Information Literacy Standards and Frameworks Committee Chair

Date submitted: October 27, 2020

Background
In January 2016, the ACRL Board of Directors formally adopted the ACRL Framework for Information Literacy for Higher Education. The framework, developed by the Board-appointed Information Literacy Competency Standards for Higher Education Task Force, grew out of the revision process for the former ACRL Information Literacy Competency Standards for Higher Education and represents a belief that information literacy as an educational reform movement will realize its potential only through a richer, more complex set of core ideas than those embodied in the previous Standards.

According to Chapter 14 of the ACRL Guide to Policies and Procedures, all association standards, guidelines, and frameworks are reviewed every five years. Actions may include (1) continuing the document in force without change, (2) revising the document to address current needs, or (3) rescinding the document. The Framework for Information Literacy is currently due to begin the review process. In cases such as the Framework, where the group that developed the document up for review (such as a Board appointed task force) no longer exists, the Standards Committee (and its component Information Literacy Frameworks and Standards Committee for information literacy-related documents) refers the standard, guideline, or framework to the Board of Directors for potential action.

If the Board wishes to initiate the review process for the Framework to determine if the Framework should undergo revision at this time, options include appointing a new task force to undertake the review or assigning that work to an existing ACRL group. The Board could also choose to delay the review process to allow the Framework to gain more traction in the profession before undergoing potential revision.

Electronic submission is preferred for all Board actions. If electronic submission of the entire document is not possible, please send the Action Form to ACRL Program Officer Allison Payne electronically at apayne@ala.org and the remainder in hard copy.
Questions for Discussion

1. Is now the right time to review the Framework for Information Literacy in Higher Education, or should the review be delayed? If delayed, when should the Board revisit?

2. If the Board would like to review now, should an existing group or new group be directed to review?

Past ACRL Leadership Council Agendas
Midwinter 2020 – Fall 2020

Fall 2020 Leadership Council

Goals
- Help ACRL leaders develop a shared framework and language for discussions around anti-racism, accountability, and repair.
- Provide frameworks for institutional organizing that lays the groundwork for anti-racist policies, cultures, and analysis in varying scenarios of power and privilege.
- Advance and truly embed ACRL’s Core Commitment to Equity, Diversity, and Inclusion (EDI) into all work of the association.
- Develop individualized action plans for integrating frameworks for anti-racism and institutional organizing within participants’ respective institutions and within ACRL.

Three-part Series

Part I: There’s No Such Thing As Race Neutral: Developing Strategies for Anti-Racist Librarianship | 90 minutes

“In a racist society, it’s not enough to be non-racist, we must be anti-racist.” —Angela Davis

There’s No Such Thing As Race Neutral is a 90-minute workshop designed to help organizational leaders understand the continuum of anti-racism within their organizations. Through brave dialogue, openness, and learning spaces founded in community care, we explore why anti-racism work is critical to developing cultures of accountability that dismantle harm and integrate anti-racist analysis into our organizational culture.

Outcomes:
- Examining the cycle of socialization and how our social identities impact our understanding of race, power, and privilege.
- Exploring the characteristics of white supremacy culture.
- Defining key vocabulary for talking about race, anti-racism, and transformational justice.

Part II: There’s No Such Thing As Race Neutral | Small Group Discussions | 4 sessions at 35 participants each | 90 minutes

Using the content presented in the There’s No Such Thing as Race Neutral workshop, participants will participate in facilitated small group discussions. The goal of these discussions is to identify the ways library systems perpetuate racialized harm and potential pathways they can take to intervene. These small group discussions will enable ACRL members to work collaboratively to create roadmaps for integrating principles of anti-racism in the library institutions where they hold the most power.

Outcomes:
- Examining how we identify and intervene interpersonally and institutionally in racialized harm.
- Defining cultures of accountability at participants’ respective institutions and envisioning how these cultures can be shifted and changed.
Creating a roadmap outlining each participant’s commitment to leaning into the work at their respective organizations.

Part III: Taking Action, Seeking Repair: Organizing for Anti-Racism | 90 minutes

As ACRL leaders in positions of power across the nation, what does it mean to be anti-racist? In this workshop, participants will be introduced to frameworks for organizing against interpersonal and institutional racism within libraries. As a group, we will unpack and analyze organizational approaches to facing conflict and seeking repair. Participants will also be provided various resources they can use to develop action plans for integrating anti-racist practices into the culture of their respective library systems.

Outcomes:
- Applying the concept of generous accountability to organizational change.
- Developing next steps and priorities for engaging with anti-racism work in community with library workers and library leaders.
- Designing strategies for applying the principles of racial equity and anti-racism within the greater ACRL community.

About the McKensie Mack Group
The McKensie Mack Group is a Chicago-based consulting agency that helps organizations identify and challenge social inequities that keep them from realizing their greatest potential. We hold more than 10 years of experience working with corporate teams, nonprofit organizations, LGBTQ+ communities, higher education institutions, and K-12 schools. Our consulting group centers the knowledge and experiences of communities across the intersections of race, gender, class, disability, and sexual orientation and features a long list of organizational partners to include, but not limited to the American Library Association (ALA), Wikimedia Foundation, Promise54, The Museum of Modern Art (MoMA), Equity in the Center, Howard Brown Health, Physics Educators for Anti-Racism, and Enrich Chicago.

Subject: Recommendation for RBMS 2021 to be a virtual event

Submitted by: Elizabeth Call, RBMS 2021 Conference Co-chair, and University Archivist, Rochester Institute of Technology
Robin M. Katz, RBMS 2021 Conference Co-chair, and Primary Source Literacy Librarian, University of California, Riverside
Petrina Jackson, RBMS Section Chair and Director, and Special Collections Research Center Syracuse University
Margot Conahan, ACRL Manager of Professional Development
Tory Ondrla, ACRL Conference Manager

Date submitted: October 19, 2020

Background

The ACRL Rare Books and Manuscripts Section (RBMS) has a long history of successful annual conferences traditionally held a few days prior to the ALA Annual Conference in an adjacent city. In 2019, RBMS held its 60th annual RBMS Conference with almost 550 people in attendance. In 2020 the conference was canceled because of the serious health risks posed by COVID-19.

Because the RBMS 2020 conference content never came to fruition, a plan was put into place to preserve the program speakers, refresh the content, and deliver it the following year in June of 2021. The RBMS 2020 Conference Chairs and committee members stayed in place for 2021 and extended their appointments by one year. Similarly, all RBMS 2020 scholarship recipients were notified of deferment of their acceptance to RBMS 2021. The original RBMS 21 Co-chairs, Emilie Hardman and Heather Cole, graciously agreed to postpone their original RBMS 2021 program to RBMS 2022.

While we were initially hopeful the pandemic would be safely over by the June of 2021, it seems unlikely this will be the case. Social distancing requirements must be followed and enforced, and these restrictions are not likely to relax any time soon. Public health experts, including the Director of the CDC and Dr. Anthony Fauci, have recently stated that the U.S. should not expect a widespread vaccine until mid- to late 2021, at the earliest. The CDC warns that the highest risk events are “large in-person gatherings dates to allow for members to participate in the event virtually while also fulfilling daily obligations at their places of employment.

Stakeholders

In drafting this recommendation, RBMS 2021 Conference Committee, RBMS Conference Development Committee and RBMS Executive Committee were consulted and unanimous in their support of a virtual event. A broader range of stakeholders will be informed as appropriate, if this recommendation is approved by the ACRL Board.

Fiscal and Staffing Impact

Financial impact will be assessed continually as planning for the event continues. Staffing is not expected to be impacted by this decision.

A revised budget will be drafted once a platform for the virtual event has been secured. Registration rates will be set with as much profit margin as we think realistically feasible given the current conditions. While we anticipate a virtual event will not be as profitable as a face-to-face conference, we are confident in our ability to create an event that is safe, engaging, and revenue-generating for the association.

Action Recommended

That the ACRL Board of Directors approves:

- That the RBMS 2021 Conference is offered as a virtual-only event held over approximately the same dates in mid-to-late June 2021.

Please see the ACRL Strategic Plan, and select from the drop-down the goal area that will be affected most by this action.

- Value of Academic Libraries
  Goal: Academic libraries demonstrate alignment with and impact on institutional outcomes.

- Student Learning
  Goal: Advance innovative practices and environments that transform student learning.

- Research and Scholarly Environment
  Goal: Librarians accelerate the transition to more open and equitable systems of scholarship.

- New Roles and Changing Landscapes
  Goal: Academic and research library workforce effectively navigates change in higher education environments.

- Enabling Programs and Services
  ACRL programs, services, and publications that target education, advocacy, and member engagement.

Subject: Board Recruitment and Participation and Travel Funding

Submitted by: Julie Garrison, Vice President/President Elect ACRL

Date submitted: October 30, 2020

Background

The ACRL Leadership Recruitment and Nomination Committee (LRNC) is charged each year to “Identify and assess a diverse pool of potential candidates, and select nominees,” for the ACRL of Directors. In recent years, the LRNC has seen an increase in requests from potential candidates to provide details on travel requirements and whether there is available funding from ACRL to offset travel costs. Also, in recent years, the LRNC has seen a decrease in the number of volunteers to stand for election for the ACRL Board, which could be in part due to the required travel commitments.

Under normal conditions, ACRL requires Board members to attend all face-to-face and virtual meetings (2.2.1 Board Responsibilities) and ACRL does not offer subsidized funding for Board travel, with the exception of the annual planning Strategic Planning and Orientation Session (SPOS). This issue was brought forth by LRNC and discussed at the June 2020 ACRL Board meeting. ACRL performed an analysis of how member organizations of the American Council of Learned Societies (ACLS) and the Council of Higher Education Management Association (CHEMA) handle funding of Board travel and this was included in a packet presented to the Board for discussion in June 2020. This analysis shared that some societies and associations provide various forms of travel assistance to support Board member participation. (For convenience, see Doc 17.1 in this packet.)

In May 2020, ALA conducted a survey to better understand the impact of COVID-19 on library operations, programs, services and finances. The survey was widely circulated, and 20% of US academic library institutions responded to the survey. The majority of academic librarians who responded, reported some reduction, if not elimination, of professional development funding given current institutional budgetary conditions. There is no certainty when, and if, this funding will return to pre-pandemic levels.

During its June discussion the Board reaffirmed the value of meeting face-to-face when conditions allow and stated a preference for providing travel funding rather than commit to switching to entirely virtual meetings. This includes continuing a face-to-face strategic planning meeting, where ACRL funding already supports board member travel. No direction on how to expand funding to support other types of Board travel was decided at this meeting.

The travel barrier is seen as an issue on three fronts:

1. It is impeding efforts in recruiting members who are willing to stand for Board positions. Though the Board is currently meeting virtually because current pandemic conditions require this, there is no guarantee that this will continue throughout any board member’s three- or four-year term. Members want the reassurance of knowing what to expect if they are going to commit themselves to serve on the Board.

2. The travel barrier is a diversity, social justice, and equity issue for individual volunteers. If potential candidates do not have institutional travel funding and must self-fund, this limits participation and is a barrier to individual career growth, promotion and tenure, etc. Cost of membership and conference attendance came up as one of many barriers to BIPOC participation in the antiracism Leadership Council workshop with McKensie Mack.

3. ACRL needs a wider range of perspectives and member-leader voices to ensure we are making the best possible decisions about the future of ACRL. (See: https://www.councilofnonprofits.org/tools-resources/diversity-nonprofit-boards) An investment to increase diversity on the Board, then, is an investment in ACRL’s future health and vitality.

Given that the Board is likely to meet in-person less frequently as ALA Midwinter sunsets and the Board Strategic Planning and Orientation Session (SPOS) is being rethought, now is a good time to consider how to encourage and support members in considering Board service. A modest sum of $1,500 will likely cushion the cost of travel expenses and lower the barrier to accepting an offer to stand for election. Reimbursement of up to $1,500 per person per year should be allocated on a needs-base and by submitting a reimbursement request, Board members self-identify their need for funding. If an option, Board members should first consider seeking reimbursement from their institution. Given these concerns, ACRL should subsidize Board member travel costs for attendance at in-person Board meetings in an amount up to $1,500 per person annually, upon request, to commence with the next fiscal year.

Board members who want to take advantage of this funding would simply submit a standard reimbursement request to staff for their travel, with required receipts per usual ACRL practice. No advance request or documentation of need would be required.

At least one other division of ALA covers board business travel; PLA has a "small library" slot on their board and pays travel for that person to attend all in person meetings.

Stakeholders

N/A

Fiscal and Staffing Impact

With thirteen board members, if everyone took advantage of these funds, it would cost the association $19,500 annually to provide this subsidy. It is anticipated that not all Board members would request the subsidy. Therefore, the FY22 budget should allocate $15,000 to this expense and in subsequent years the budget projections would be adjusted to reflect historical actuals. ACRL and ALA accounting staff time would be required to process reimbursement requests.

Action Recommended
That the ACRL Board of Directors approves subsidizing ACRL Board of Director travel costs incurred for attending in-person ACRL Board meetings for up to an annual amount of $1,500 per person and the FY22 budget will allocate $15,000 total to this expense.

Strategic Goal Area Supported
Please see the ACRL Strategic Plan, and select from the drop-down the goal area that will be affected most by this action.

Other Organizations’ Board Participation Analysis

In May 2020, ACRL polled higher education organizations, on closed email lists for executive directors, to identify trends in Board participation requirements and subsidized funding for Board travel.

About ACLS

“The 75 learned societies that are members of ACLS are national or international organizations in the humanities and related social sciences. Each society is concerned with a distinct field of study, but all are involved in the promotion of research, scholarly publication, and education.”

No Funding Provided Comments

- Board member candidates are given the meeting dates upon being nominated to run; if they know that they cannot attend the main meetings, they should not run for office, and if they find out in advance that they can’t attend, they should resign from the Board.
- The expectation is that members be present in person for meetings unless there are extenuating circumstances.

Funding Provided Comments

- We now require board members to let us know if they would like us to pay for their travel to the in-person board meeting. No questions asked—they just have to sign up to get their expenses reimbursed. This has worked well and has saved us several thousand dollars per year.

Virtual and Face-to-Face Comments

- This year our March board meeting was fully virtual for the first time. In the past the expectation was for as many board members to participate in person as possible, although one or two did Skype into the meeting from time to time.

  We do not allow members to participate virtually if the meeting is taking place physically.
- The plan is for more frequent virtual meetings during the current crisis in order to dispose of business in a timely, thoughtful, and inclusive manner.
- Obviously, this year is different. We will meet next week via zoom. But everyone will be on zoom, which is different from some people in a room and some on the screen. One interesting aspect of meeting remotely (as much as we are not happy about it) is that instead of two long days we will do it in a series of 2-hour sessions.

</tbody>

About CHEMA

CHEMA “is an informal voluntary assembly of management-oriented higher education associations in the United States and Canada.” As of June 2020, there are 44 member organizations.

No Funding Provided Comments

- We do ask all leadership (Board and regional leaders) to ensure that they have institutional support to attend the Annual Conference where the Board meets, and regional training happens.
- We do not pay for travel for Board members to attend meetings. This is included in the application where the candidate needs to show institutional or self-support.
- If the meeting is being held in conjunction with a conference or other event, travel costs are not covered.

Funding Provided Comments

- We do have a fund that we started 3 years ago that is used for leaders who do not have financial support to travel for meetings (the fund is also used for members who do not have financial support to attend conferences). We set this fund up so that we could be sure to have members participate in a leadership position who need it.
- If the meeting is a standalone event, costs are covered.

Virtual and Face-to-Face Comments

- We’ve discouraged the virtual option when we have an in-person meeting, as it just doesn’t work and it’s not worth the extra cost, you are there or you are not
- Many groups had previously not allowed any form of virtual participation but are now considering as a long-term solution.
- Most groups are opposed to the hybrid in-person/virtual meeting. People tend to want either 100% in person or 100% virtual.

ACRL Board Ground Rules
Approved Fall Board Meeting, November 18, 2019.

1. Accept mutual responsibility for quality of meeting and assess effectiveness.
2. Be present, attentive, engaged and prepared. Avoid side conversations.
3. Lean into discomfort; discuss the undiscussable issues.
4. Speak up if you have a question or to test assumptions.
5. Listen with care for the individual and differ respectfully.
6. Signal conclusion, identify next steps, and make clear assignments.
7. Assume positive intent/give benefit of doubt.
8. Enjoy yourself.

Make knowledge-based decisions using these four questions:

1. What do you know about our members/prospective members/customers—needs, wants, and preferences, that is relevant to this decision?*
2. What do we know about the current realities and evolving dynamics of our members’ marketplace/industry/profession that is relevant to this decision?*
3. What do we know about the capacity and strategic position of our organization that is relevant to this decision?*
4. What are the ethical implications of this decision?

*What do you wish that you knew, but don’t?

ACRL Board Social Media Guidelines
Approved Fall Board Meeting, November 16, 2018

This document addresses ACRL Board members’ use of their personal social media accounts in sharing information from Board work.

1. Purpose
Social media offers an opportunity for the ACRL Board to increase two-way communication with members. As such, we recognize the importance of social media not only for sharing information and updates, but in contributing towards greater transparency and member engagement.

2. Guidelines
Board members who engage with social media agree to do so in a professional manner and to act in accordance with the Board’s Ground Rules, which are reviewed and updated each year at the Strategic Planning and Orientation Retreat. The following guidelines are intended to assist Board members in determining what type of social media posts are appropriate. Board members may:
   a. use their personal social media accounts to share Board information;
b. share information/discussions and distinguish/label personal opinions clearly as their own;
c. include general summaries of Board discussions without including specific comments or attributing those comments to individual Board members
d. Once vote is taken, support decision in line with Board responsibilities;
e. report on action items;
f. leverage social media to gather feedback from members.

3. Responsibilities
Board members who choose to share Board information on social media are responsible for following member responses and closing the feedback loop, as follows:

a. Twitter posts should use the #acrlboard hashtag, along with any individual hashtag(s) for specific discussions.
b. Board members initiating discussion on social media should summarize and report member responses back to the Board promptly.
c. Board members initiating discussion on social media should report back to responding members with the results of the discussion.
