"We are thinking about how to provide better access and to provide more discovery for collections that have been underrepresented or need more exposure in library catalogs. We are asking questions such as: what research and scholarship is missing in our collections and how can we better highlight underrepresented authors/voices in our catalogs?"

Email excerpt from Sharon Wiles-Young to Lehigh Professors teaching course related to DEI during the Spring 2022 semester

Initial Questions

- What titles on his list do we not have in our collection?
- Are there summary notes present?
- How complete are the table of contents notes for the books?
- Are there subject headings we want to change, add to, or delete?
- How many uses do the print book and ebooks have and will that change when we make changes to the metadata?
- What authors, including chapter authors are not represented in our collection?

Question 3

Are there subject headings we want to change, add to, or delete?

Subject Headings Reports

Subject Headings - Further investigation

- Meet with Dr. Beachum to discuss subject headings.
- Explore other outreach avenues at Lehigh
- Continuous education

Branching out Beyond 60 MARC Records

1. Identify records for more works held by the library concerning systemic racism in the education system of the United States.

2. Once the body of work has been identified, use OCLC to enhance 520, 505. Try MatchMARC

3. Keep list of underutilized headings to add to cataloging habits.

4. Check circulation statistics at the end of this semester

5. Write a report of all authors, from 100 fields, to 700 to 505$r. Query our DB to see if gaps can be identified. This is dependent on good TOC notes - step 2 above.
